City workers MD game tonight

City of Romulus' employees — the ladies against the men — will hook up tonight in their annual "friendly grudge" softball game at 7:45 tonight at Elmer Johnson Park for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy.

Cannisters will be passed among the spectators and all proceeds will go to aid to fight the dreaded disease. Sponsors promise a "fun time for all the spectators and players alike."

Johnson Park is located on Ozga Road, between Wick and McBride in Romulus.

City seeks police slogan

What would be the best slogan for the new Romulus Police Department to carry on its cars?

That's the question residents are being asked as the city conducts a contest to see who can come up with the best slogan.

Mayor William M. Oakley is offering a $50 savings bond to the person whose slogan is judged the best. People entering the contest are urged to keep their slogan to three or four words for the most impact.

(It also has to fit on the trunk of the police cars).

For instance, Dearborn Police Cars used to carry the motto: "Have a nice day." Deadline for submitting slogans to the mayor's office at city hall, 11111 S. Wayne Road is June 30. The winner will be announced in the Romulus Roman on July 15.

$3 million smiles

When Central Distributors of Beer, Inc. announced plans to build in Romulus, they said they would erect a $3 million warehouse on Harrison Road between Wick and Hildebrandt. Beer distributor to build $3 million warehouse in city

Central Distributors of Beer, Inc. — Michigan's largest wholesaler — recently broke ground for a new $3 million warehouse in Romulus.

Mayor William M. Oakley, who attended ground-breaking festivities with other elected officials, welcomed the new firm to the city.

"We are extremely pleased to have such a fine company move to Romulus," he said. "We welcome them and wish them the best of success."

Joining Oakley for the ceremony was City Clerk Leonard Folmar, Mayor Pro-Tem Mary Ann Banks and Councilmen Gerry Canejo and Edward Rush. Representing the company were Rosella Burkhardt, chairman of the board of directors, John Colina, president, and B.D. Hill, general manager.

"We are extremely happy to locate in Romulus and feel it is a very good place to build our new facility," said Hill. "We plan to take an active part in community affairs as we have done in every city we were located."

Central Distributors started as a family operation in 1933 in a 5,000 square foot warehouse in southwest Detroit. They later built a 20,000 sq. ft. warehouse in Livonia and prospered as the business increased.

They needed more space and erected a 53,000 sq. ft. warehouse in Taylor, which has served them until the present time. When they outgrew their present site, they looked for more land to increase the size of their facilities.

They chose Romulus to build a huge 120,000 sq. ft. warehouse which will be located on Harrison Road between Wick and Hildebrandt.

Company spokesman Hill added, "We attribute our success to the best quality products and service. We believe our success is due to the fact that we have made a commitment to change with the times when necessary."

"We look forward to a long and prosperous time in Romulus that will be mutually beneficial to everyone," Hill said.

Metro Airport plans runway repairs

A $1.5 million construction project at Detroit Metropolitan Airport got underway last week with the completion of essential intersectional work scheduled for August 24.

Airport officials said the project involves the reconstruction of two major taxiways (D and G) which will restrict the use of runway 21-F/3L (the airport's longest runway — 10,500 feet long) to takeoffs only during daylight hours and to aircraft using under 5,700 feet in length.

The runway will be closed to all landings during the construction period.

The runway's opposite end — that's 3L — is also closed to takeoffs with aircraft using the two remaining parallel runways.

Romulus voters reject school millage levy

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus voters went to the polls Monday in small numbers but the results were significant.

The millage was defeated by a 2-1 margin, 1,453 to 718, and challengers Daniel Bales and Sandra Langley ousted incumbents Wayne Avery and Evelyn Hopewell by wide margins in unofficial results.

Bales and Langley worked extremely hard during the campaign and it paid off as Bales led the vote-getters with 1,134 and Langley finished second with 933, almost 100 votes more than Board President Avery, who was seeking re-election to his four year seat.

Avery garnered only 835 votes and Mrs. Hopewell ran fourth with 617 tallies. A disappointingly small turnout of 15 percent of the registered voters bothered to cast ballots. Dorothy Nesler, the fifth candidate who announced she was not actively campaigning, received 188 votes.

Including the absentee votes as a precinct, 17 of the 20 precincts rejected the 4.5 mill increase for operations. Only Merriman, Beverly and Hayti school areas approved the millage.

That went about as many had predicted.

However, Bales and Langley were the real story on election day. Their margins kept increasing as the totals rolled in from different precincts. The good-looking, first-time runner for public office won 17 of the 20 precincts and finished second in another in running up a more than 200-vote margin over his nearest competitor.

Mrs. Langley, who campaigned with Bales in a determined effort with many of the same workers, won only one precinct but was runnerup in seven precincts and ran strongly in all areas of the city.

Bales was extremely happy at a victory party after the polls closed Monday night.

"We ran a good, effective campaign," he said in the joyous atmosphere of triumph as well-wishers celebrated the results.

"Our cause and issue was that you can't have a deficit. I commend Wayne Avery and Mrs. Hopewell for their hard work on the school board. But I think the people responded to our call to live within our means."

Bales was referring to himself and Mrs. Langley, who had a large contingent of hard workers out campaigning and covering the polls on Monday. Bales, in fact, took one week of his vacation time last week to go door-to-door to win votes.

"I want to thank my supporters," Bales added, "they did a truly magnificent job. I'm sorry for the losers tonight."

but the voters have spoken and now it's time for all of us to work together on the school board and in the city to build a strong school system."

Mrs. Langley said she was "overwhelmed" by the victory.

"I feel glad. I'm more hopeful now than ever that we were campaigning on the right issue of fiscal responsibility and living within the district's income."

She admitted she did not care for the "political" aspect of running for the school board. "I'm not a politician and I'm relieved that it's over. I was really dumb-founded at how political the campaign got."

"But it was a good, clean campaign and all the candidates worked hard. Now it's time to get busy — there's a lot of work to do, a long, hard road ahead to build a strong school system here in Romulus. We (board members) need to share our thoughts and work together. I'd like to commend Wayne Avery and Evelyn Hopewell for their hard work on the school board. Mrs. Hopewell is a very wonderful person and while I disagreed with Mr. Avery's attitude at times, he also worked hard and I wish him well."

"I want us to balance our budget — and I want our community to have control of our school district, not one person or the state. I want to thank all the people who worked so hard on our campaign and the voters who supported us," Mrs. Langley said.

Deputy Clerk Linda Choate said the 2,276 total votes cast was approximately 15 percent of the number of registered voters in Romulus.

"There were no incidents whatsoever reported and no ballots had to be discounted for being improperly cast," she said. "It was a good, clean campaign from all reports we received and we commend all the candidates involved."

On a lighter note, Mayor William M. Oakley received one write-in vote Monday for school board trustee.

'Road Runners' race for Muscular Dystrophy

Joggers are needed for the first annual "Romulus Road Run" that will be held at 9 a.m., on Saturday, June 20 in conjunction with the benefit softball games for Muscular Dystrophy and other charities.

The fee to enter is $6 and each participant will receive a T-shirt emblazoned with the words: "First Annual Romulus Road Run." There will be five age groups competing and trophies will go to the male and female that is first in overall competition. Winners in each age group will receive an award.

There will be refreshments at Elmer

Johnson Park, the starting and ending line for the 5.5 mile run. Water stations will be provided along the way for the runners and times will be given each mile.

Dennis Davidson, Recreation Director, urges Romulus people to enter the "Romulus Road Run." "It's a fun thing and with all the interest in running and jogging these days, we should be able to have a nice size number," he said.

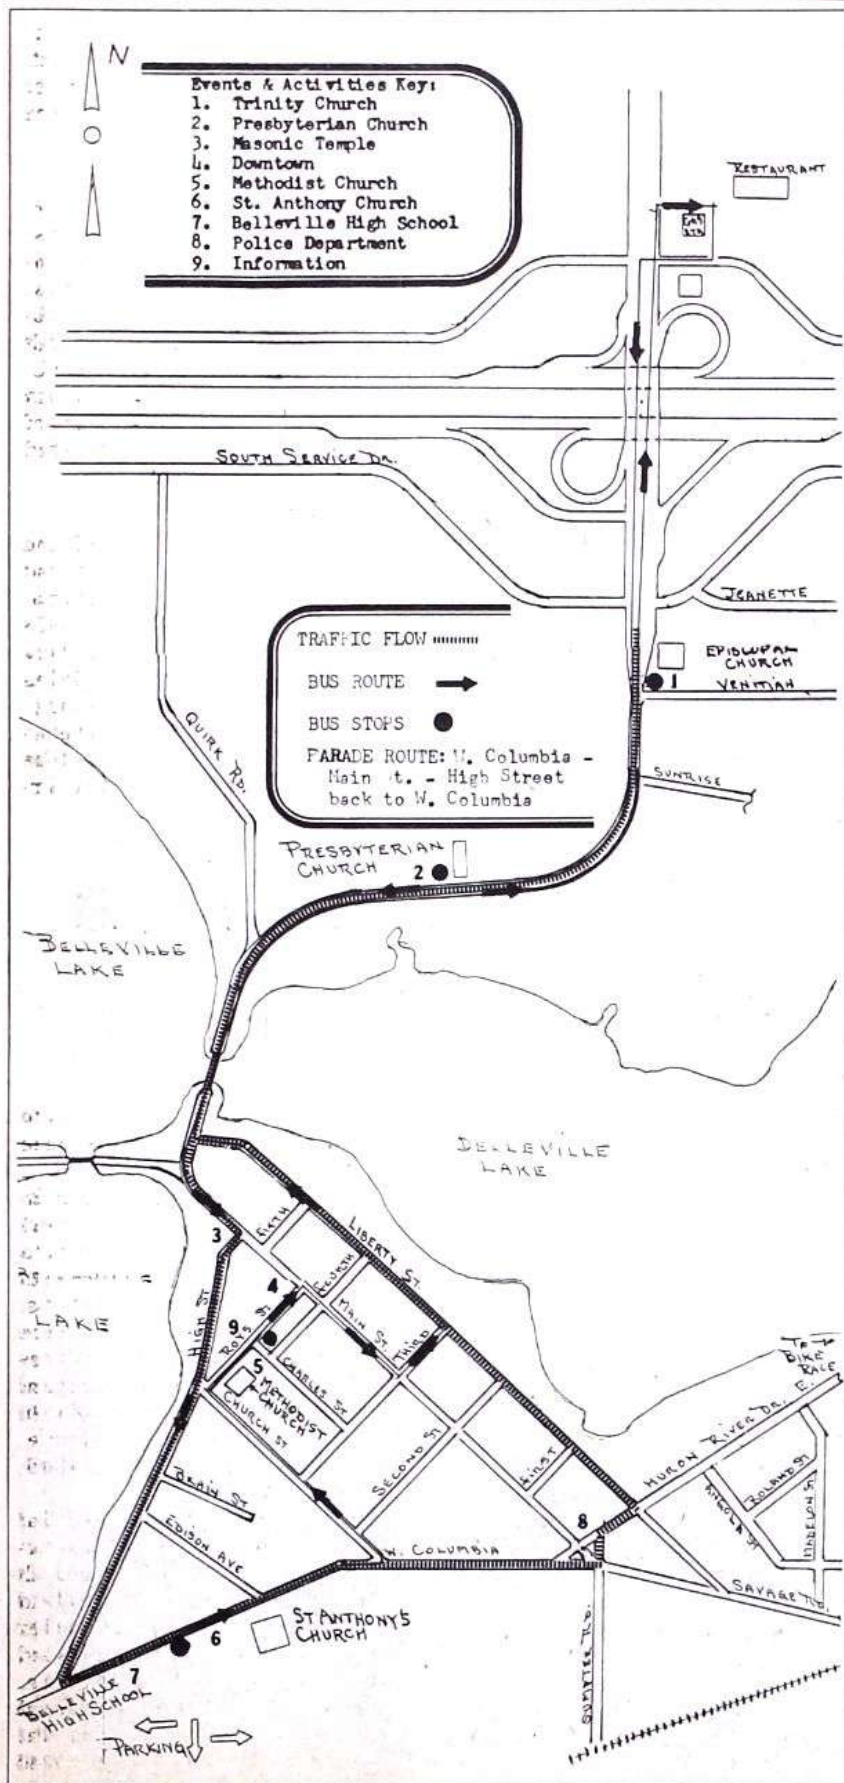

The five age groups include: 19 and under; 20 to 29; 30-39; 40-49 years of age and 50 years and over.

Strike-bound forging plant to close doors?

Strike-torn Webb Forging Co. officials announced this week that they may not open their plant at 12654 Haggerty Rd.

"I do not wish to elaborate at this point in time," said John Handley, a spokesman for the company, "but our Belleville operations will be closed as of June 6."

The plant, closed down last March after a break-down in labor negotiations left more than 80 hourly workers and some 20 management employees out of work.

The plant has also been the scene of violence and vandalism. However, no arrests have been made.

The company had a contract with the United Steel Workers Local 4823, which represents the hourly workers but it expired on March 1, 1981. The two sides were not able to come to an agreement on wages and benefits, and some 80 workers walked off the job.

Webb company officials have pointed out that the plant has "severe economic problems because it could not effectively compete with other forging plants and shops."

The plant turns out industrial conveyor chains.

Huron may vote on 'charter status'

Group files petition to overturn board's decision

Huron Township voters must once again decide whether they want to become a "Charter Township."

Petitions were filed last week at Township Hall that will override a recent Board resolution to become a Charter Township. Without these disagreement petitions, Huron would automatically become a Charter Township 60 days after the Board resolution, made April 8.

There were 621 signatures on the petition, "enough to spare," said George Angel, organizer of the petition drive. Law required 346 signatures (ten percent of the registered voters who voted in the last election) to override the Board resolution, and require the question to be placed on the ballot in the next election.

"A lot of people were really teed off," Angel said. "They just voted the same issue down last November. The Board isn't listening to the people."

Angel feels that the Board should have simply put the question on the ballot again in the first place. Not only would he and his helpers be saving the time and money spent soliciting signatures, but the Board "would not have got a black eye" for going against the will of the people.

Huron Township Clerk Mary Lou Carey said she was not sure when the Charter Township referendum would be placed on the ballot. She said an attorney had advised the Board that they could "sit on the petitions until the next regular election," which would not be until November, 1982.

"When this issue came up last year, we wanted to place it on the May primary ballot," she explained, "and the attorney said we had to wait for the regular election in November."

Angel is opposed to Huron becoming a Charter Township because he feels it will give the Board the right to assess an additional 5 mills in taxes without voter approval. "It takes away the rights of the people," he contends.

Angel is also disturbed the Board is pushing the issue so soon after its defeat last November.

Clerk Carey explained that the Board acted on the recommendation of Supervisor Richard Sullivan. The Wayne County Drain Commission was at that time considering running part of their "Superditch" through Huron; and it was rumored that if Huron did not approve the ditch, Romulus might try to annex part of Huron.

A Charter Township may not be annexed. "We were just trying to protect our boundaries," said Mrs. Carey.

"We don't want to raise taxes. Besides, when you become a Charter Township by resolution of the Board, the law clearly requires that all additional assessments be voted on by the people."

State is awaiting bids for local road repairs

State Representative Edward E. Mahalak, Chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation announced today that the Department of Transportation will be taking bids in Lansing on June 17, 1981 on several construction projects.

"Bids will be taken on intersection improvements, including construction of two-tenths of one mile of left turn lanes at the intersection of Raisinville Road and M-50, just west of Monroe," Mahalak announced.

The estimated cost is $100,000 and it is expected to be completed in October, 1981.

Bids are to be taken on the construction of pressure relief joints and joint repair on 11.2 miles of I-75 Freeway from the Ohio State line, north to LaPlaisance Road in Erie, LaSalle and Monroe Townships.

The scheduled completion date is July, 1982 and the estimated cost is $1.3 million.

Mahalak added that "Bids will also be taken on the resurfacing of approximately four-tenths of one mile of McBride Road, easterly from Wayne Road in Romulus." He said, "this project is expected to be completed in October of 1981, with a construction estimate cost of $50,000."

Benefit is planned for victim's family

A benefit fund-raiser has been planned to help a Romulus family who lost their father recently in a drowning accident in Canada.

Friends are joining together on a June 20 benefit cabaret to assist the wife and four children of Melvin G. Parker Sr., who met with tragedy while smelt dipping at Point Pelee, Canada April 22.

To help the family with pressing financial needs, friends have planned the Benefit Cabaret for June 20, beginning at 9 p.m. and running until 2 a.m. at Romulus Civic Center, 11495 Wahrman Road, Romulus. Donations are $5 in advance at Zeco's Party Store, 35651 Goddard Road, Romulus; Wilson's Dairy Cream Dome and Party Store, 35705 Goddard Road, Romulus and at Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Road. Food and set-ups will be available.

Tickets at the door will be $6. There will be five hours of non-stop music by "The Partymaker"—also known as DeeJay Frank Moore Jr.—who has volunteered his time. Also featured will be DeeJay Tuff Terry of radio station WCHB, who is taking time out from his busy schedule to attend.

Serving on the benefit committee are Louise Rush, chairman; Vivian Hollifield and Betty Scott from the entertainment committee of the Romulus Civic League.

"People have been so kind in wanting to help in every way they can," Mrs. Rush said. "I think this is really beautiful, especially when people are working together like a family from the communities of Romulus, Wayne, Inkster and Detroit.

"Members of the Romulus Civic League have been very kind as to donate the use of the Romulus Civic Center for this benefit.

"Melvin G. Parker Sr. was warm, kind, sincere father to his children and devoted husband to his wife, Celestine. He was really a beautiful person and will be truly missed by the community but the love he and his family shared will always remain," Mrs. Rush said.

A memorial service was held May 9 at New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, with Dr. Fulton O. Bradley, the pastor, presiding. Mr. Parker served as a Trustee and vice-president of the User Board of the church, where the family regularly attends.

Mrs. Rush, a close friend of the Parker's, said that checks and money orders also may be made payable to Celestine Parker, care of Louise Rush, 11409 Wahrman, Romulus, 48174. For additional information, call 941-3431.

All proceeds from the benefit will go to help the Parker family.

House for sale

Vocational students pound final nail in their 'Project House'

Romulus Community Schools' Vocational Residential Building and Construction Maintenance Class has just completed its "Project House" for the 1980-81 school year.

The house, located at 9515 Cogswell Road, is a contemporary-styled three bedroom ranch, finished with rough sawn wood siding and brick on the exterior.

One of the two ceramic tile baths is attached to the master bedroom. Vanities and color keyed fixtures are features of the baths. The living area of the house features a large open area containing the kitchen, eating area and sunken family room.

The large fireplace is set in a brick wall that runs the length of the family room. This wall is highlighted by a beamed ceiling and recessed lighting. The house was designed to include energy efficient features such as wood-insulated glass windows, foam core metal exterior doors, styro-foam sheathing and provision for a woodburning stove.

Senior students, completing the second year of the two-year program, provided most of the construction manpower. The staff is proud of the efforts of the students in completing this satisfying task under the direction of Coordinator Doug Hoffman, Instructor Terry Bird, and Vocational Education Director E. L. Sheffield. This is the seventh house constructed by Romulus seniors since 1975.

The house was started in September. Students did all of the carpentry phases, including rough-in, roofing, siding and painting. Interior work such as heating, plumbing and electrical were performed by the students under the supervision of subcontractors," Bird said.

"The purpose of the program and the project houses is to provide students with practical training in building trades skills for future employment and individual use."

individual use."

The students were on hand last Sunday at an open house at the site to display their handiwork. Another open house from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow, will also provide an opportunity for prospective buyers to inspect the house.

The sale of the house will be by sealed bid. The minimum bid price has been established at $68,500.

Complete sales information will be available at the Open House. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Vocational Education Office at 941-2170 or the Romulus Board of Education office at 941-1600.

Airport

While the project will return the full use of the now restricted runway as soon as possible, some occasional disturbances may be noticed by Romulus residents living east of the airport.

The FAA-approved project does limit the available runway configuration, and airport area residents are requested to consider these limitations when making their complaints known.

"Since these taxiways are among the oldest in use at the airport, we must proceed with the reconstruction — but we will be as quick about it as possible," said an airport spokesman.

Woman pastor to lead Methodist Church

Rev. Margery Schleicher

Members of Community United Methodist Church will not only have a new edifice to worship in later this summer but have called a woman pastor to be leader of the flock.

Rev. Margery Schleicher comes to the Romulus congregation and also the Willow United Methodist Church in Willow after serving as associate pastor at Livonia Newburg United Methodist Church.

She was born and raised in western Michigan United Methodist parsonages where her father served as pastor. She has a brother who is also in the ministry.

Mrs. Schleicher comes to the Romulus parsonage with her husband, Dr. J. Gordon Schleicher, a management and instructional development consultant, her daughter, Marcia, who will be entering fourth grade, and Andy, who is entering the first grade.

Rev. Schleicher served the United Methodist West Michigan Conference as lay person on district and conference agencies. She is presently on the Board of Directors of the YWCA of Western Wayne County. Margery graduated from Albion College with a B.A., received an M.A. in Communication from Michigan State; attended Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas and graduated from the United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio.

Her theological studies began at Southern Methodist University, Dallas when she decided to go to seminary after earning her B.A. and spending some time teaching. After two years of a three year seminary course she decided to return to Michigan and resume teaching, not realizing the teaching field was tightening up at that time.

When she was unable to find a position as a teacher, she enrolled at MSU where she met her husband-to-be, Gordon Schleicher.

After they were married, Gordon served in the Army at Fort Benning, Georgia. While there, Marcia was born and Margery did volunteer work in an army chaplaincy Christian Education program.

With Army service completed, the family returned to East Lansing where Gordon earned his doctorate in instructional development and technology, and Margery completed her MA in communication. During that time Andy was born.

In earning the MA she thought it would help her use her theological background as a lay person in church work. Part of her course work was with the United Methodist Church commission on the status and role of women and because of that project she was named to the National UMC meeting in Dallas as a delegate in Jan. '79.

Rev. Schleicher thinks that attending the Consultation of United Methodist Church Clergywomen on the subject of the status of women helped her make her career decision and she finally said yes to the call to the ministry.

While she was working toward this accomplishment in the United Methodist Church at the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio, the Schleichers lived in Canton, Michigan.

By careful scheduling and budgeting of time, classes, Gordon's job, responsibilities to motherhood, housework and home work for seminary, it was decided the best transportation for Margery would be by air. So her last year of class work toward her theological degree was spent in flying from Metro Airport—spending Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in class and then flying home to her family.

Truly a rough schedule by an standards but Rev. M.A. Schleicher is sure that her upcoming career will be well worth the effort.

Community United Methodist Church's new hour for worship will be at 11 a.m. beginning Sunday, June 14. Services are held at the Senior Citizen Center, 36515 Bibbins until completion of their new building, located on the corner of Olive and Bibbins, sometime this summer.

Willow United Methodist Church will have their services starting at 9:30 a.m. this Sunday.

Government is seeking retired railroad workers

The federal government is seeking veterans who are retired employees of the New York Central Railroad Company and its subsidiaries, or their survivors, to ascertain if they are eligible for additional pension benefit payments.

A class action lawsuit now before the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania seeks to have time spent in military service by these employees credited toward pension benefits from their civilian jobs. The Government is seeking the names and addresses of all persons potentially affected by this suit.

Former New York Central employees who (1) started working for that company before their military service; (2) served in the armed forces before 1946 or between 1965-1968; (3) returned to the New York Central within 90 days of their discharge; and (4) participated in one of the company's pension plans should contract James G. Sheehan, Assistant U.S. Attorney, 3310 U.S. Courthouse, 601 Market St., Philadelphia, Pa., 19106, (215) -597-0620 or Edward Ellis, Office of the Solicitor, U.S. Department of Labor, 14480 Gateway Bldg., 3535 Market St., Philadelphia, Pa., 19104, (215) -596-5186.

$19.7 million in the red

Wayne county proposing to cut 500 employees from its payroll

Anticipating a $19.7 million deficit this year, the Wayne County Board of Auditors has proposed the layoff of 500 employees effective July 1, or as an alternative, deferment of fourth-quarter cost-of-living payments.

The proposal, presented to the Financial Crisis Committee of the Board of Commissioners on June 2, was referred to the County Labor Relations Board for exploration with employee labor-bargaining groups.

Along with the Auditors' proposal, suggestions from Commissioners Edward K. Michalski, Jarrette Simmons and Board Chairman Samuel A. Turner asked for discussion on a possible four-day work week, and specific other days off without pay during the year such as occurs with state employees.

"We are open to and want to explore anything that will reduce cost," explained Turner. "We are agreeable to explore any plan that will save jobs, and we want the unions to participate fully in the decisions."

The 500 layoffs or the deferment of COLA would reduce the deficit by $5.2 million, said the Auditors. Other parts of their plan, referred for action by the Board's Ways and Means Committee, would reduce the deficit by $4.5 million more, for a total budget reduction in 1980-81 of $9.7 million.

Speaking of the current budget year, the Auditors said, "Given the present state of the economy in Michigan and the extent to which the current austere County budget is already strained, it would be unrealistic to forecast that the projected 1980-81 deficit can be eliminated in its entirety."

To eliminate the entire deficit in one year would require up to 1,500 layoffs from among only 4500 remaining, which would "VIRTUALLY FORCE THE County to cease operations," the Auditors predicted. Instead, the three-member Board of Auditors recommended the $9.7 million reduction this year, and the remainder in the 1981-82 fiscal year.

"Obviously, the success of the program will depend to a great extent on the whole-hearted cooperation of all County elected officials and department heads," the Auditors pointed out.

Sent on for consideration by the Ways and Means Committee were cost-cutting measures that include the limiting of child care expenditures to the maximum set by the state, which would save $1.3 million, and the freezing unexpended monies for equipment and construction, a savings of $700,000.

Also going to Ways and Means is a $2.5 million savings plan that would require a freeze on hiring and a pro-rata mandatory savings share in all departments.

The Auditors report and recommendations were presented at the request of the Board of Commissioners, which in April asked for an explanation of why a projected $19.7 million deficit in April when a balanced budget was submitted in October. In their report, the Auditors point to unexpected revenue shortfalls and over-expenditures, with the Sheriff's department a chief example.

Revenue shortfalls, according to the Auditors were heaviest in the County's expected share of state income tax distribution. A difference of $3.8 million is due to the poor economy and population changes between 1970 and 1980 census data.

Sheriff William Lucas, say the Auditors in their report, is responsible for the biggest overexpenditure of almost $3

'Super sewer, super problem?

At least one Canton Township board member feels that "Super Sewer" is a "super problem."

Trustee Steve Larson said Tuesday night at the township board meeting that he believed that the township should disassociate itself from the Huron Valley Wastewater Control system, a group that is putting the groundwork together for the "super sewer."

Detroit was ordered by the federal government in 1977 to improve its waste disposal and water system. In order to receive some $200 million in matching federal funds, the Detroit Water Board had to come up with its share of the finances. Hence Detroit launched a rash of increases to its 52-community customers that have not stopped.

Suburban communities have organized to fight in court and also successfully applied on federal grants to study the feasibility of a "Super Sewer."

"When the Super Sewer presentation was made to us," said Larson, "I felt then that when we finally got hooked up to the system it was going to be a much more expensive system than we have now.

"And thus far no one has presented me any facts to change my mind," Larson said. "Because of the problems the Detroit sewer was having, it was felt we could build another sewer system, a brand new one, but the fact of the matter is it's very expensive."

"Their presentation was based on population trends when we were growing faster than any other community, however, the 'boom years' in Michigan appear to have ended as well in southeastern Michigan, and growth in this township has stabilized," Larson added, "so we won't be getting the numbers to hook into the new system, therefore costs will be greater."

Noel Culbert, former township supervisor, later said the township had engineering surveys done, "and the bottom line was what was it going to cost you in the long run."

Doughnut factory

What could be more fun than having your own doughnut maker? These kindergarten students at Hale Creek, led by teacher Liz Cilfone, had the thrill of having a "doughnut factory" last week and even adults pitched in to help. School is almost over for the year but this is one exciting time that the kids will remember for a long time to come. ANP photo by Lothar E. Konietzko.

Belleville Baptists set Bible School

The Emanuel Baptist Church of Belleville is hosting its annual Vacation Bible School which will get underway on Monday.

The church is located at 960 E. Huron River Drive and children from ages 4 years up to 17 are invited to attend the week long classes.

A summer Olympics is also planned for the final day of classes (June 19) and ribbons will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in each of the age groups and events.

"We are planning a really exciting week for our youth," said Pastor Brian Frju. "This year our school project is to send Bibles to the orient—Japan, China, Malaysia and Korea."

The community is invited to enroll their children and further information may be obtained by telephoning the church offices at 697-0566.

Area parks begin dance season

Two regular dance programs will be held this summer at the Outdoor Dance Center of Willow Metropark near New Boston and Flat Rock according to Kenneth M. Smith, park superintendent.

Square Dancing, including beginning and intermediate lessons, will be held (at the Outdoor Dance Center of Willow Metropark) every Friday evening from 7:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. starting June 19 through August 7. Well-known area square dance caller Ken Crowley is in charge of this program.

Several Detroit-area musical groups will provide music for ballroom-type dancing to be held (at the Outdoor Dance Center of Willow Metropark) most Saturday evenings from 8 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. "Gentlemen", a musical group, will provide the music for the first program of 1981 on Saturday, June 20.

"The Challengers" will present two variety shows—one each at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Saturday, June 27, and Saturday, July 4 will feature two events: a musical program at 8 p.m. and "Holiday Fireworks" at 9:45 p.m.

In case of rain, dance and musical events will be held at the Indoor Terrace of the nearby food bar. Dance events will be held during the remainder of the summer through Saturday, August 15.

All special events are free, however, vehicle entry permits are required (Annual: regular—$7 or senior citizen—$2 or daily—$2).

For additional information persons should contact Willow Metropark—Phone 697-9181 (% Belleville).

The Outdoor Dance Floor and building, dedicated on July 15, 1979 and which costs $146,000, provides 3,300 square feet of dance area plus 7,200 square feet of area for tables, chairs and/or spectator seating on grass embankments.

Other facilities in the 1,531-acre park include modern food bar, colorful patio, bathhouse and olympic sized swimming pool, games area with basketball, tennis and shuffleboard courts, large tot lot, stoves, shelters and picnicking areas.

million. Officially, the Board of Commissioners terminated the Sheriff's Road Patrol and Investigation unit on Jan. 31, but Lucas defied layoff orders and he and union representatives have thwarted the issue in a series of still-unconcluded court suits.

Since Feb., Lucas has spent $1.3 million while maintaining the road patrol intact despite termination orders, and at the current level of spending, is expected to overrun nearly $3 million in overtime pay at the jail and jail annex.

Although, as a result of a court decision, the road patrol headquarters was closed on June 5, the bigger issue of overall staffing in the Sheriff's department is yet to be determined from a pending lawsuit being handled by Hillsdale County Circuit Judge Harvey

Moes.

Besides the closing of the road patrol headquarters, Moes has already ruled that deputies working unofficially under Lucas' orders are not entitled to retroactive pay.

Down by the riverside

The Motor City Chorus, Detroit No. 1 Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., the Barbershop singing society, will host the annual Detroit River Moonlight Cruise on the Bob-Lo Boat, Fri., June 19.

The boat leaves at 8 p.m. from the Bob-Lo dock, which is west of Cobo Hall near third street, and returns at 11 p.m.

The cruise features good old Barbershop harmony from many quartets and choruses who will be on board. So, "In the Good Ol' Summertime", come on and go "Crusin' down the River", "By the light of the Silvery Moon".

Tickets are $7 per person. Please call 388-8849 or send checks and self-addressed envelope to Nelson Gotshall, 14800 Ashton, or purchase them at dock side from a Barbershop Chapter representative. We'll be looking for you "Down by the Riverside".

Gray completes OSUT training

Army Pvt. Spencer Gray, son of Shirley V. Gray of 35276 Beverly Road, Romulus, recently completed One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Gray is a 1980 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Navy Airman Recruit Daniel L. Riste, son of Dennis E. Riste of 35532 Smith, Romulus, and Patricia A. Fusina of 35648 Canyon, Westland, Mich., has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid.

Airman William H. Pace Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Pace Sr. of Belleville has graduated from the U.S. Air Force Morse Systems operator course at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Graduates of the 21-week course studied international Morse Code, the operation of electronic communications monitoring systems, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Pace will now serve at Clark Air Base, Philippines, with the 692nd Electronic Security Squadron.

He is a 1979 graduate of Taylor Truman High School, Taylor.

Army Pvt. 2 David M. Green, son of Shirley M. Green of Rapid City, Mich., and Earl R. Green of Belleville, has arrived for duty at Kitzingen, West Germany.

Green, a tank turret repairman with the 703rd Maintenance Battalion, was previously assigned at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

He is a 1975 graduate of Kalkaska High School, Kalkaska, Mich.

Ted M. Wisniewski, 18, son of Theodore and Neva Wisniewski, 40320 Alden Rd., Belleville, has entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Technical Sergeant Jim Besmer, the Air Force recruiter here, Wisniewski will commence four years active duty on Nov. 17, undergoing six weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

The Air Force has guaranteed that Wisniewski, a 1980 graduate of Belleville High School, will then receive Security Specialist training, and upon completion be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Airman Yolanda M. Shaheen, daughter of Catherine O. Goodman of 5533 Merriman, Romulus, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the supply field.

She is a 1980 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Navy Seaman Recruit Daniel W. Wheeler, son of Richard L. and Vivian F. Wheeler of 46025 Van Born, Belleville, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid.

Bigelow's Garden & Lawn Tips

For the homeowner with a well established lawn, five important points to consider in lawn maintenance are mowing, fertilization, liming, vortigation and thatch.

The mowing height for most Kentucky Bluegrass and five-leaved fescue is one and a half to two inches. Mow low growing grasses to a height of about one-half inch to minimize accumulation of thatch. Keep the blade of your mower sharp. Dull blades tear the leaves, giving a brown cast to the lawn.

To plan a good fertilization program it will be helpful to conduct a reliable soil test every five years. Testing for PH, phosphorus and potassium can be done at the local Cooperative Extension Service. To gather a good sample, take at least 10 to 12 different samples from the area to be tested. Mix these samples thoroughly and send one-half cup of this combined dry soil as your sample to be tested.

Read the label on the bag of fertilizer before you spend your money, and find out how much each pound of nitrogen costs. I recently checked garden supply centers and found that the cost of fertilizer — figured on the basis of the nitrogen content — varied by as much as 100 percent.

Do not be confused by a manufacturer's statement that a bag of fertilizer will cover 5,000 or 10,000 square feet. Coverage isn't the vital statistic with fertilizer; what matters is the nitrogen content. Let's suppose for example, a fertilizer is labeled 20-8-5. That means 20 percent, or 20 out of every 100 pounds, is nitrogen. So to provide four pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet per year, you need 20 pounds of that 20-8-5 mixture per 1,000 square feet of your lawn.

Phosphorus, the ingredient indicated by the second number on fertilizer labels, moves very slowly through the soil. For that reason smaller amounts are needed. It should be applied on a regular basis, since without phosphorus roots do not grow fully, leaves are stunted and plants fail to mature properly.

The third essential element in fertilizer, potassium, helps build strong root systems, aids in disease resistance, and improves the ability of the plants to withstand cold weather and drought.

It is best to fertilize a minimum of twice a year, once in the spring and early September.

Soils that are strongly acidic should be limed. To correct an acidic soil condition, broadcast finely ground limestone, at any time of year, at the rate of 25 to 30 lbs. per 1,000 square feet of lawn.

Adequate water is essential for best turf grass growth, density and color. Thoroughly wet the soil to a depth of six to eight inches. Shallow, frequent irrigation can result in shallow rooting and increased disease problems. Do not water in the evening as this can be favorable to the growth of fungus diseases.

Thatch consists of tightly intermingled layer of living and dead stems and roots of the turf grass plant that develops between the green vegetation and the soil surface. Thatch depth is best determined by cutting a pie-shaped wedge at least 2 inches deep and examining the vertical cross section.

If thatch accumulation exceeds one-half inch, thatch control should be started; many lawns may never need de-thatching. Also, de-thatch when growing conditions are favorable for rapid recovery, like in September or early spring, before active growth begins.

Some fathers really do know what's best

Let's hear it for the fathers of the world

"It's a wise father that knows his own child." — William Shakespeare

By MADELEINE JACOBS

FATHERS OF THE WORLD, UNITE!

Enough about motherly love! It's your turn to stand up and claim credit for all the hours you've devoted to the care and feeding of the little ones.

Not just the time and energy you've spent providing food and shelter, but all those hours invested in midnight bottle feedings, diaper changings, back-to-school nights, endless piano and dance recitals, refereeing at soccer games and providing unlimited chauffeur service.

'Excellent conquest car...'

Ford says EXP is luring young buyers from exports

The new Ford EXP is attracting young buyers who otherwise might have purchased an imported car, according to a Ford survey of EXP owners.

"Half of all EXP buyers considered an import before purchasing our new little two-seater and one out of four said they would have bought a foreign car if we had not introduced the EXP," said Louis E. Lataif, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"EXP is proving to be an excellent conquest car for us," he added. "Forty-six percent of early EXP buyers participating in the survey had owned a non-Ford product at the time they bought our sport-coupe."

Other findings from the survey cited by Mr. Lataif include:

- EXP buyers rate their car as highly as new buyers of leading foreign makes.
- Owners single out styling, handling and fuel economy as the EXP features with which they are most satisfied.
- EXP quality is rated even higher by its owners than early buyers rated the Ford Escort.
- Forty percent of early EXP buyers didn't even consider another make of car.
- Generally, EXP buyers tend to be young, well-

Views On Dental Health

By PHILIP MEIZELS, D.D.S.

ARE PRIMARY TEETH IMPORTANT?

Want to make your dentist cringe? Tell him not to waste his time on your child's severely decayed tooth because, "It's only a baby tooth and he's going to lose it anyway!" Don't kid yourself! Primary teeth (a much better phrase than "baby teeth") play a very important role in the development of a child's future dental health. Obviously, they are necessary for chewing. Even more important, primary teeth create the proper spaces for permanent teeth. A primary tooth that is prematurely lost can no longer do this job. The teeth nearby will crowd into the empty space, and when the follow-up permanent tooth tries to enter there may be no room. As a result, it may become impacted (lean sideways inside the gum). It may come out in the wrong place

(for example, through the front of the gum). Or, it may crowd its way in and destroy the delicate balance of the mouth. Losing primary teeth prematurely is one of the commonest reasons for orthodontic treatment later on. Prompt treatment with a space-maintaining appliance is generally called for to reserve the room for the next tenant.

It's enough to make you feel like a proud papa, especially when you stop and realize that fatherly love is rather rare in the animal kingdom, says Dr. Devra G. Kleiman, a zoologist at the Smithsonian's National Zoological Park in Washington, D.C.

More often than not, she says, the father shows almost no interest in his offspring, other than perhaps defending a territory against intruders. Even among paternal types, there is wide variation in how much fathers invest in their young, she notes, with male mammals investing less than birds and fishes, though more than reptiles and some amphibians.

Still, there are dedicated daddies throughout the animal kingdom—from the beaver to the bush dog, from the phalarope to the penguin. Here's a Father's Day salute to them.

Top honors for paternal provisioning must surely go to the Emperor Penguin, the largest of the penguins, which makes its home on the inhospitable shelf ice of Antarctica. While we in the Northern Hemisphere are enjoying summer, it is winter in Antarctica and perpetually dark. Even as you read this, each penguin is standing alone with a single egg in the dark, bitter cold, abandoned by his mate after a two-month whirlwind courtship.

During their late fall fling, the male and female, apparently forego eating better things to do, entirely forgo eating and engage instead in an elaborate series of displays which culminate in mating. The female lays one egg, then promptly vanishes off to sea to feast, leaving her hapless, hungry helpmate holding the egg.

The male penguin does not build a nest but holds the egg on his feet, covering it with a fold of his bellyskin throughout the entire incubation period. Since he does not dare abandon his potential offspring in order to eat, by the time the chick hatches some 60 days later, the male has lost 35 to 45 percent of his weight during his four-month fast.

If the vacationing momma has not returned by the time baby hatches, daddy also caters the first meal for the chick. The story has a happy ending, though, since mom eventually returns and both parents share the brooding and feeding responsibilities for the next five months.

While much is known about this extraordinary example of fatherhood, no one has carried out studies on marital bliss among the peripatetic penguin.

The usual parental roles are even more reversed in the red phalarope, a slim-necked shorebird that breeds on the arctic tundra and winters at sea.

Teacher remembers

It happened back in 'the good ole days'

By PARK E. GREGORY

June of 1945 had arrived and so had graduation time for Belleville High School.

The old gym was decorated for the occasion and Charlie Gault who ran a radio shop about where Gault Village now stands brought in a public address amplifier, speakers and microphones for the ceremonies.

My part was to operate the system during bacca-laureat and commencement.

The experience was most satisfying and by the end of the next year we had selected and purchased our own equipment which consisted of a thirty-watt amplifier, two speakers in portable cases and a couple of crystal microphones on chromium plated stands.

We used it for all student assemblies throughout the 1945-46 school year.

When graduation time came again I was of course scheduled for the high school events, but what I remember best was the sixth grade graduation at Louella Leonard's school on Third Street.

There was a group of maples on the Church Street side of the school and lots of green clipped grass.

Stanley Sobolewski and Lewis Miller, high school custodians, had brought down a load of those old green, steel, folding chairs from the high school which they were setting up on the lawn and I had the public address amplifier.

Stan and Louie helped me tie the speakers up in the trees. We ran a long extension cord out from the school and I was soon involved with testing, testing.

The graduation was set for early evening and in the distance there were gathering clouds and faint rolls of thunder.

The parents were seated, all twenty seven of the sixth-graders were in place, Louella Leonard made the introductions, Cleveland Roe delivered the address and the diplomas were handed out.

Parents and graduates scattered as the first drops fell. I got the amplifier into the car first along with the microphones. Then as the lightning flashed and the thunder boomed I was up the trees getting the speakers down. I must have thought those fifteen dollar speakers were worth more than life.

As the demand grew for more outdoor use of the thirty-watt I could see the need for a couple of trumpet speakers. With these we could project sound for great distances outside. The trumpet speaker consists of a horn and a driver unit which screws onto the small end of the horn.

The driver unit is where all the electrical energy is converted into sound.

The chemistry and physics room, where I taught was on the second floor over the superintendent's office.

This was handy when the plumbing leaked—it got fixed immediately.

But also it was handy for an experiment. In the small stockroom at the rear of the chemistry room there was a small crack in the ceiling next to the inside wall.

The crack was large enough to push a wire through into the attic. The hall ceiling just outside the stockroom had a hole in the plaster about half the size of my hand.

This offered a possibility that came to mind immediately. I pushed a wire into the attic and placed a driver unit, connected to it, over that hole in the hall ceiling.

Announcements could be read over the system at the close of the day and students were somewhat mystified as to the source. Even a whisper with the volume turned up was ear-piercing.

We saw the possibilities of installing some fixed speakers in the halls and a control center in Erwin Johnson's office at the west end of the upper hall.

We even mounted a trumpet on the roof aimed at the football field just in case we had to call someone who was out there.

We didn't have to wait long for that, but what should have proved how smart we were, failed.

A mother called to ask us to send her son home for a minor emergency.

We knew he was on the football field so I turned on the amplifier and relayed the message to the student but he didn't come.

Finally I walked out there. He said he heard me alright but thought it was a joke.

There was one incident where the thirty-watt almost got us all into serious trouble. It was in the days before there was electricity at the ball field.

There were no lights and the games were played afternoons. One time an FM station in Wyandotte decided to broadcast a football game from the Belleville High School ball field.

The telephone company put in a line from the street to a point just under my stockroom window. From there it ran along the building, around the west end, then to a tree and down to the ground where it lay along the fence leading to the football field. The game was broadcast along that telephone line to the station in Wyandotte.

After the game the line lay there for days and that gave me an idea.

If I clipped the wire just under my stockroom window and brought it inside, put a plug on the end and plugged it into a light socket just maybe we would have enough current at the ball field end to run our amplifier for next Friday's game.

Carl Simmons thought it was a good idea so I gave him a meter and told him to go out to the end of the line and test for current. In the meantime I would have the line clipped and plugged in.

Well, Carl got back before I expected he could. He was running and puffing, "Pull the plug, pull the plug."

It seems that without ever letting me know the telephone company had diverted the line that very morning to a construction shack at the back end of the west wing and connected a telephone to it.

The telephone reacted rather oddly to the 120 volts pouring into it. After tearing itself apart it just sat there and smoked.

No less than three telephone trucks rushed in, repairs were made, but no one even talked to me.

Maybe Cleveland Roe promised to fire me. He never did. But maybe I shouldn't be telling this.

Let's hear it for the fathers

south of the equator. The small, subdued-color males are ardently pursued by the larger, more gaily dressed females until the male succumbs to her charms and builds a nest, usually on a low bank covered with short grass. The female duly deposits as many as four eggs, then takes off for the open tundra, perhaps to flirt with other males, leaving the would-be father to incubate the eggs and raise the chicks on his own. Such unseemly maternal behavior led one naturalist to observe that the female red phalarope is a "poor mother at best."

Moving on from feathered fathers to the watery world of fishes, there are a number of species in which the male guards the eggs laid by the female, but only a few fish can compete with the curious case of the seahorse, a small, warm-water creature in which the male literally gives birth.

The female seahorse dumps her eggs in a specialized brood pouch located beneath the male's tail and swims away—forever. At birth, the male contorts his body and expels the young through the single opening in the pouch. It's labor of love that keeps the seahorse sire quite busy—the dwarf seahorse, for example, breeds nine months of the year and is capable of giving birth every 10 days to a whole new batch of fish fry.

Sad to say, such fatherly devotion is rare among mammals, zoologist Kleiman points out, but to be perfectly fair, there are sound biological reasons which partly explain this fatherly neglect. After all, among mammals, only the female can "incubate" the egg since it is fertilized internally, and only the mother has the ability—and equipment—to nurse the young. This rules out two roles for male mammals that male birds and fishes can perform as well as their female mates.

But if you disregard these sex differences, Kleiman says, male mammals do have to same potential to care for the young as females. They can provide food, shelter, defense, cleaning, carrying and grooming. They can also socialize, play and babysit with the youngsters.

Yet, in an extensive survey carried out by Kleiman and a colleague, Dr. James R. Malcolm, on male paternal investment in mammals, only a few prize-winning poppas turned up.

One candidate for Father of the Year is the busy beaver. Not only does the male beaver build and maintain the lodge and stock the larder with food for the winter, but when the babies are born, he provides food for them, cleans and carries them, babysits and huddles with the tykes, all the while maintaining a constant vigil against predators.

Then there's the South American bush dog, a relative of the common household dog. In what is probably unique behavior among male mammals, the short, squat bush dog actively participates in raising the young from the moment of birth, according to biologist Ingrid Porton, a student of Kleiman's who is studying bush dog behavior at the Zoo's Conservation and Research Center in Front Royal, Va.

"The father's role is incredible," an admiring Porton says. "In one instance, we saw a male help pull the pup from the female during birth, and in each of the births we've witnessed, the male pulls out and consumes much of the after-birth."

"As soon as the pups are born, the father aids the mother in licking the pups dry and from then on takes a nearly equal role in caring for the young. The mother nurses the infants for about 10 weeks, but during this time the father continues to clean them and sleeps with the pups, which helps regulate their temperature and protects them. It's a very close-knit family."

CITY OF BELLEVILLE ORDINANCE NO. 81-211

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE CABLE TELEVISION SYSTEMS IN THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE: TO ESTABLISH RULES APPLICABLE BETWEEN SUBSCRIBERS AND CABLE TELEVISION COMPANIES FOR CABLE TELEVISION SERVICES; TO REQUIRE A FRANCHISE FOR CABLE TELEVISION SERVICE AND TO ESTABLISH FEES, CONDITIONS, REQUIREMENTS AND PROCEDURES FOR OBTAINING A FRANCHISE; TO PROVIDE FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF RATES FOR SERVICES AND PROCEDURES TO VARY RATES; TO ESTABLISH PROCEDURES AND REGULATIONS RELATING TO TERMINATION, REVOCATION, SURRENDER AND RENEWAL OF FRANCHISES; TO ESTABLISH A CABLE TELEVISION COMMISSION; TO ESTABLISH PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION OF THIS ORDINANCE.

THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. That Ordinance 81-208, entitled "City of Belleville Cable Television Franchise" is hereby further amended by amending Sections 3.8, 3.12, 4.1, 4.3, 4.8, 5.1, 8.8, 8.9, 8.11, 8.14, 8.16, and 8.19, which amended sections shall read as follows:

ARTICLE III
FRANCHISE AND APPLICATION

SECTION 3.8 Duration and Acceptance of Franchise. The franchise and the rights, privileges and authority granted shall take effect and be in force from and after final passage of the franchise as provided by law, and shall continue in force and effect for a term of fifteen (15) years, provided that within sixty (60) days after the date of final passage of the franchise, the applicant shall execute a Franchise Agreement which shall contain its unconditional acceptance of the franchise and promise to comply with and abide by all of its provisions, terms and conditions and all of the provisions, terms, and conditions of this Ordinance, as amended. Such acceptance and promise shall be in writing duly executed and sworn to, by or on behalf of the Franchisee before a notary public or other officer authorized by law to administer oaths.

SECTION 3.12 Police Powers. In accepting the franchise, the Franchisee acknowledges that its rights are subject to the City Charter and the police power of the City to adopt and enforce general ordinances necessary to the safety and welfare of the public; and it agrees to comply with the Charter and all applicable general laws and ordinances enacted by the City pursuant to such power. Provided, however, any amendment of this Ordinance shall be reasonable and shall not conflict with or alter the rights granted herein.

Any conflict between the provisions of this Ordinance and the franchise and any other present or future lawful exercise of the City's police powers shall be resolved in favor of the latter.

ARTICLE IV
FRANCHISE FEE

SECTION 4.1 Franchise Fee. For the reason that the streets of the City to be used by the Franchisee in the operation of its system within the boundaries of the City are valuable public properties acquired and maintained by the City at great expense to its taxpayers, and that the grant to the Franchisee to the said streets is a valuable property right without which the Franchisee would be required to invest substantial capital in right-of-way costs and acquisitions, the Franchisee, (subject to any valid applicable, rule or regulation of the FCC) shall pay to the City an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the Franchisee's gross annual revenues per year (payable quarterly) from all sources attributable to the operations of the Franchisee within the confines of the City, or reasonably related to service rendered within the City. In the event that it is determined that the FCC lacks jurisdiction to impose a limitation on franchise fees, or that the limit is raised, then the franchise fee will be subject to renegotiation.

SECTION 4.3 Payment. Such franchise fee shall be payable on the 15th day of the month following the calendar quarter for which it is payable. No license fees or taxes levied upon the Franchisee by the City shall be credited against the payment required herein. The Franchisee shall file a complete and accurate verified statement of all gross revenues covering the calendar quarter for which said payment is made.

SECTION 4.8 Fiscal Reports. The Franchisee shall file annually with the City Treasurer, no later than one hundred twenty (120) days after the end of the Franchisee's fiscal year, a copy of a financial report applicable to the system including a statement of income applicable to its operations during the preceding twelve (12) month period, a balance sheet, and a statement of its properties devoted to Belleville system operations, by categories, giving its investment in such properties on the basis of original cost, less applicable depreciation. These records shall be certified as correct by an authorized officer of the Franchisee and there shall be submitted along with them such other reasonable information as the City shall request with respect to the franchisee's properties and expenses related to its system operations within the City.

ARTICLE V
ADVISORY COMMISSION

SECTION 5.1 Belleville Cable Television Programming Advisory Commission. The Council may create a cable television programming advisory commission consisting of seven (7) members, representative of the City's population, who shall be appointed by the Mayor with the consent of the Council. Such Commission shall be organized in such a manner as to represent the major areas of community interest including, but not limited to human relations, religion, recreation, civic and community service, government, education, senior citizens, service organizations, and the arts.

ARTICLE VIII
MISCELLANEOUS

SECTION 8.8 Construction Timetable. Franchisee shall promptly and as soon as possible after the granting of the franchise described in this Ordinance apply to the FCC for all permission and authority necessary for the lawful operation of a CATV System. Franchisee shall exercise all reasonable efforts to complete in a workmanlike manner and in conformity with all applicable State, Federal, and City rules and regulations all construction of a CATV System within the City within twenty-four months or less from the date upon which it receives all necessary permits. The Franchisee shall not be responsible for any delays in the progress of work due to labor disputes, fire, acts of God, unusual delay in transportation, unavoidable casualties, failure of other persons to meet properly their respective commitments, including, by way of example and not limitation, suppliers of essential services or goods, or any and all other causes beyond the Grantee's control.

SECTION 8.9 Local Origination Services. The Franchisee will maintain and operate a fully-equipped studio within the local area and convenient to the City of Belleville which will be capable of operation at remote locations. A channel will be dedicated for the use of the School District and the local private schools.

SECTION 8.11 Subsequent Franchises. Should the Franchisee or any subsidiary of Franchisee, enter into any arrangement with any other comparable Michigan municipality relative to a franchised cable television system on terms which are more favorable to such other municipality, or its residents, whether by way of rates, franchise fee, services, facilities, or otherwise, than those applicable to the City of Belleville, the more favorable terms shall inure to the benefit of the City of Belleville and its residents as though they were directly incorporated in this Ordinance. Further, the Franchisee shall incorporate into the cable television system such technological and other changes that become available during the term of this franchise based upon the state of the art of the industry, and reasonable economic feasibility.

SECTION 8.14 Local Office or Agent. The Franchisee shall share or maintain a local area business office or agent for receiving via a non-toll telephone call, inquiries or complaints regarding the quality of service, equipment malfunctions, billing disputes and similar matters. All complaints and inquiries will be investigated, responded to or acted upon as promptly as is practical, and unless circumstances otherwise require, within three business days of their receipt.

SECTION 8.16 Interconnections. The Franchisee's system shall be designed and constructed so as to be capable of interconnection with any systems existing in municipalities contiguous to Belleville (and insofar as it is technically and economically feasible) with such systems anticipated for future construction; and the Franchisee shall make reasonable and diligent efforts to accomplish interconnection with such systems. However, nothing in this provision shall prohibit the charging to subscribers, on a time-used basis, or extra fees for cablecast channels received from noncontiguous systems.

SECTION 8.19 Violations and Penalties. A violation of any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall constitute a misdemeanor. Each day that a violation is permitted to exist or does in fact exist shall constitute a separate offense. Any person, firm or corporation who violates any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine not exceeding Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars or ninety (90) days in jail, or both, in the discretion of the Court. The section shall not apply to Franchisee as it is subject to Section 3.13.

SECTION 2. This Ordinance shall become effective upon publication.

This is to certify that the undersigned do hereby authenticate the foregoing record of the Ordinance therein set forth.

Birth expectations survey is scheduled

How many children do married women expect to have within the next five years? Will they average the same number as in the recent past? Answers to these questions will help indicate the future growth and composition of the Nation's population, data vital to planners both in government and private business.

Robert G. McWilliam, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Detroit, announced today that information on birth expectations of American women will be collected during the week of June 15-19, 1981, from a sample of households in this area. The questions are in addition to those usually asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 71,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

Results of this monthly survey provide continuing measure of economic conditions in the Nation. The April survey indicated that of the 106.7 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 99.0 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent, unchanged from March.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Coast Guard offers boat safety classes

Boating groups throughout the Great Lakes area will team up June 7-14, 1981 to mark the observance of National Safe Boating Week, according to Joe Dombeck, a Westland resident and Flotilla Commander U.S.C.G. Auxiliary.

Free courtesy motor boat examinations by members of Flotilla 12-05 U.S.C.G. Auxiliary on Sunday, June 14, at the Canfield Community Center on Beech Daly south of Ford Rd.

The examiners will check each boat brought in to make sure it has the proper safety equipment.

The Auxiliary will also hold classes on Friday and Saturday, June 12-13 in the Westland Shopping Center.

A display of a properly fitted boat provided by "Boat Mart" will also be at the location, plus a speaker explaining the new Visual Distress Signals for 1981. The Coast Guard Auxiliary Safety Decal will be awarded to boats that are properly equipped.

OPINIONS

The voters came on but what did they say?

The local electorate continues to keep us guessing. Like, what are they trying to say, if anything, by Monday's annual school election.

Voters turned down almost every millage proposal that requested an increase in operational funds, but whenever and wherever there was a renewal on the ballot they gave their unequivocal stamp of approval.

Are they trying to tell school board members and superintendents of schools, "Better live with what you've got because we ain't got any more to give you?" Are the voters, who were overwhelmingly dissatisfied with the state's Proposal A just a few weeks ago, saying: "Show us that you can balance the budget despite the mass unemployment and inflationary economy and maybe when times are better we can reconsider your needs?"

One thing for sure, the voters are watching their local school boards. They won't let them slip anything past them without a fight. That's the message, we felt here, when proposal after proposal for additional monies went down, while renewals, even the hefty 32 mills in the Wayne-Westland Community School District was approved by the voters.

So what's next in the way of local school financing? Hopefully, no more millage elections in the near future.

The voters have spoken. Now it's time for the school districts to tighten their financial belts, just as the individual households have been forced to do in recent times. And if that belt tightening must include cutbacks, so be it.

Yes, cutting back on school services will hurt. Yes, reductions in salaries and extra-curricular programs won't be easy. And yes, new educational projects will have to be put on hold.

Voters simply do not want to pay more taxes for whatever reason: property, school millage, federal or state. After Monday's school election, that message is once again crystal clear.

To Kelly Graham, our first state champion

A few years ago it was almost inconceivable for "little girls" to don catcher's masks and sweat up in baseball games, or run track or play soccer.

They were, after all, "made of everything sweet and nice."

But, thanks to a couple of federal laws and the emergence of equality for women on all fronts, you find junior and senior high school girls playing sports and athletics, sometimes as well as, even better, than their male counterparts!

And Westland John Glenn's Kelly Graham personifies this point. She can clear a hurdle in track and run with the best of them. In fact, the 17-year-old Glenn junior is the best Class A state hurdler in the 110-yard low hurdles.

Miss Graham proved that a couple of weeks ago at the state finals and became the first girl ever in the school's history to capture a state crown.

Kelly broke the ground that we hope many will follow. Girls sports, especially on the high school level, is faced with many challenges, especially with the inevitability of decreasing funds and money.

Schools will begin cutting programs because they didn't get the necessary funds from the voters in Monday's election, but we hope that cuts will be made elsewhere. Not in sports.

In the meantime, we salute and congratulate Miss Graham for her exceptional performances at state.

Stand up for CB

Do your part! Stand up and be counted. Help us to help you. You don't have to be a CB'er to help CB. Learn about CB radio, CB'ers and CB clubs; then you will want to help.

Granted! There are some bad CB'ers ... just plain rotten CB'ers! But for every one of the bad ones there are a few hundred good ones ... super CB'ers! Think of it in this way: before there was ever a CB radio, there were people. There were caring, considerate people and then there were rude, arrogant and ignorant people. It remains the same today.

Owning a CB radio hasn't changed either of those types of people. A CB radio is like a bottle of wine. When used properly, the Bible tells us, it is good for the body. But when a person misuses it, the person becomes disgusting. Notice ... the wine doesn't change. It's the USER that becomes disgusting. The same applies to a CB radio. In the hands of a good user, it has been, is and will continue to be a great benefit to the whole world! In the hands of a bad user, he becomes disgusting!

As a caring, considerate CB operator, I'd like to stand up for the good citizen band radio operator and, in the process, deny the way most people think of all CB'ers. Contrary to the average thinker, CB radio is not a child's toy! It is a communications device that requires a licensed operator. To receive a license from the Federal Communications Commission, a person must be 18. Next, the average CB'er is not an irresponsible "10-4, Good Buddy, what's your 20?" idiot! The world of CB users includes a large variety of people ... all colors, creeds, nationalities and basic credentials. There's a professional athlete in the east, a newscaster in the north, a businessman in the west, teachers throughout the world, a chemist in Europe, electricians in the south. And then there are the students, farmers, grandparents and big wonderful world of truck drivers!

Financially, some are wealthy, some are poor; but most are the average, middleclass working people. (I detest the use of the word "middle-class" because, with CB'ers, there is no classing of people. We are just people united by our CB radios.)

Even the so-called age barrier is broken when the CB radio takes over. Never in the history of the world has there been anything so small as the CB radio that could unite so many, so fast! Don't let the word "unite" scare you—CB'ers unite for the good in this life. For you. For your loved ones. For the injured. For the lost, sick, cold and hungry.

Like the time when a patient in a Michigan hospital needed a rare type of blood, one of the nurses called her husband and told him to see if he could get some volunteers. She had to call him back in a couple of hours and tell him to ask the volunteers to stop coming! In no time at all, they had all the blood they needed and the hospital had more "united CB'ers" than it could take in a single day. Oh yes, the nurse herself was (and still is) a CB'er.

Then there was the group that "united" and volunteered to work around the clock to help their town during a snow storm. These CB'ers took their four-wheelers, snowmobiles, radios and walkie talkies and became "snow taxis" and emergency vehicles for the police and citizens of that town. When the highways and other roads became impassable and had to be closed, these same CB'ers again united to clear a big place for the trucks and all other travelers to park their wheels. They worked to find food and warmth for those who needed it. And they stood by their radios until all roads again were passable and all people were safe, or on their way to safety. And what's so really beautiful about these CB'ers, they didn't charge anyone a single penny for all their work and trouble.

And then there was the club that "united to study for and get their own first aid cards and CPR cards. They were so "together" that even the local and state police officers took notice and offered and gave talks on how this club could be of service to the law officers. They united for you!

So, dear friend, the next time you get TVI (interference on your television set) or a CB neighbor comes through on your stereo, don't get mad. Get with that neighbor and discuss the problem. I'll bet you can work it out together. Remember this, it isn't always the fault of the radio or the radio operator. It is often the fault of the TV or antenna, which in turn is really the fault of the government for not putting TV frequencies farther from the CB frequencies.

But how could they forecast the growth that was to come in the interest of CB radios? Actually, there is no one place that the fault can really lie. Things will get better.

But with all of the bad that has been said about CB and CB'ers, I feel the good overrides the bad by the millions! So, stick in there friends. There are those working with the FCC to promote and produce better CB. This paper is your number one hope. Buy it, read it, pass it on to a friend!

The Other Side of the Meridian

An act of honesty

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

A strange chain of events led to one of those rare and delightful stories that people like myself enjoy relating.

The lady said she left her purse in the rest area in Milan, Michigan. There were the usual sundries and a little more than $20 in cash in it. More important, there were all those documents like driver's license and credit cards and keys — those headache things that we think about when they get lost.

After driving from the rest area, the young lady remembered. The quick flash of memory of putting the purse down and not remembering to pick it up. She turned around and drove back.

It was too late. The purse was gone. The road from Milan to Westland was made longer because of the fact that the purse was in someone else's hands. And what do you do? First, the police and pray maybe someone had found it and returned it.

No such luck.

Next calls to each and every plastic card company you've been addicted to. And, of course, you have to change the locks on your door — and that's one of the biggest headaches of all because you don't know who has your keys.

But for the young lady in Westland, the story ends well.

As she turned into her driveway, she spotted something sticking out of her front door. Her first thoughts were that someone made it here before I did, and she was right.

When she opened her screen door, there sat her lost purse and a note which read:

"Dear Deboie,
"My name is Nancy Taschner. My husband, daughter and I were driving from St. Pete's, Florida, to my folks house in Auburn, Michigan. We stopped at a rest area to use the bathrooms, and I found your purse.
"Here it is with all your contents. I wished I could've got it to you earlier — or phoned you to let you know it was on its way.

Anyway, I believe in that biblical saying, 'Do unto others, as you would like done to you'. Take care.
P.S. I'm sorry, but I had to be nosey to find your address. I hope all turns out well and good.

With people like that, you just got to believe in the human race.

Fireworks can be a lot of fun...but also very dangerous

Every Fourth of July, children ask the same old questions, and parents grapple for some new answers and reasons why fireworks are off limits to youngsters.

"You're spoiling our fun. What harm can a firecracker do anyway?"

"When you were a kid, you did everything you wanted. What's wrong with fireworks? Why can't I have fun like you did?"

Before surrendering to their pleas, you might want to explore some evidence of why fireworks can be dangerous:

• It was May, 1976, in a New Jersey high school. A prankster had tossed an illegal fireworks device into a glass cabinet in a corridor. Seconds later, two teenage girls passed within three feet of the cabinet, as the device exploded. One girl died when glass cut her jugular vein.

• Having fun was the reason two boys gave for setting off a firecracker in a tree stump in Walnut Creek, Calif., in June, 1979. When firemen finally put their hoses away, two persons were hospitalized and three homes gutted; damage was put at $330,000.

• In the aftermath of new year's celebrations in January, 1980, some children on the island of Kauai, Hawaii, gathered pieces of firecrackers and put them in a small glass bottle. One lighted the powder. A three-year-old girl died and six companions were hospitalized for injuries from the explosion.

Bystanders are often innocent victims of explosions. Last July 4, an 18-year-old Bremen, Indiana, man died from a fireworks accident ... a four-year-old East St. Louis, Ill., boy was killed when a roman candle misfired in a home fireworks celebration ... and on the preceding day, a Montana man died when a mortar shell exploded.

Many thousands of fireworks displays on Independence Day are uneventful except for the festive holiday spirit that results from "the bombs bursting in air." Cities, towns and villages across the nation stage the displays because residents are less inclined to set off their own fireworks after having their fill of the public celebration.

In spite of this, untold Americans risk life and limb every year in an effort to create their own explosive devices. On July 3, 1979 three persons died when homemade fireworks exploded in the basement of a West Philadelphia, Pa., home; three explosions ripped through the structure. A few days later, a 16-year-old Texas youth died when his homemade firecracker exploded.

What is being done to curb these fireworks related injuries and deaths?

Working cooperatively, agencies at the local, state and federal level are enforcing prevailing laws governing the sale of illegal fireworks, and stepping up inspections of contraband fireworks exported to the U.S. or manufactured domestically by unlicensed firms.

Some states have closed their borders to fireworks of any kind. Fifteen states have banned everything except the caps used in toy cap pistols; 14 states allow caps and sparklers, but prohibit everything. The remaining 21 states have differing laws, but they essentially ban all fireworks except those which meet the requirements of the federal government.

At the national level, three Washington agencies are committed to reducing injuries from fireworks accidents.

• The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in the U.S. Department of the Treasury has jurisdiction over the licensing of companies engaged in the production of explosives, including fireworks. Regulations cover all aspects of manufacture, security, personnel safety and storage.

• The U.S. Department of Transportation regulates interstate transport of fireworks, including packaging, marking, labeling and placarding.

• The U.S. Consumer Product Safety

Commission regulates those fireworks that may be sold to consumers, including chemicals that may not be used, physical specifications, performance requirements and labeling.

Consumer protection against dangerous fireworks became a federal responsibility in 1966 when Congress enacted the Child Protection Act. With that law, the so-called "blockbuster" fireworks were declared illegal. Cherry bombs, M-80 salutes and the giant firecrackers containing more than two grains of explosive powder were banned.

In 1973, when the CPSC was established, fireworks safety became a priority. Three years later, fireworks safety was strengthened further. In December 1976 the agency ruled that firecrackers sold to consumers could contain no more than 50 milligrams of explosive powder; prior to that time, firecrackers could contain as much as 130 milligrams, almost 160 per cent more explosive powder. With the clamp down, fireworks-related accidents at first declined significantly, but are now on the rise, CPSC says.

During the last year before the 1976 law took effect there were about 11,000 injuries from fireworks. The figure declined to 8,200 in 1977 when the new regulation took effect, and to 7,100 in 1978, but it rose to 8,100 in 1979 and to 9,424 last year.

Product abuse appears to be the most frequent cause for fireworks injuries. CPSC's study in 1979 showed that over 60 per cent of the injuries from legal or illegal fireworks were due to product misuse, not product malfunction. Furthermore, the malfunctioning fireworks were, for the most part, banned fireworks under the federal law. In those cases where malfunctioning legal fireworks were involved in accidents, the injuries were minor and did not often require hospitalization.

Exploiting myth about Vietnam

EDITOR — Unfortunately the errors in R. E. Utley's letter attacking my views on Vietnam may not be self-evident even to astute readers. Since he has insulted me and misled your subscribers, I beg the chance to reply.

Utley is exploiting a myth that combat veterans know all about Vietnam because "they were there". Most people feel so guilty about not having a Purple Heart that they accept this falsehood without challenge.

In fact, getting shot at does not make a man an expert on war any more than getting pregnant makes a woman an expert on genetics. Heaven knows that combat alone does not make someone an expert on a country's politics or society.

Utley ignores the fact that I was there, too. I was not a combat soldier. But I did get out into the field, saw the country, met its people and observed its troops. As an eyewitness myself, I can attest that Vietnam was too complex to be understood through a gun-sight.

How would we feel if a Chinese man came to a Texas Army post for one year, never learned English, never read any books about us, spent most of his time in the desert and the rest in camp, visited our cities only to eat in Chinese restaurants, never left Texas, and then went home and told his friends he was an expert on U.S. politics and public opinion?

Yet that is exactly the preposterous arrogance that Utley and a lot of other ex-GI's are guilty of.

I am not a professor. (If Utley really knew anything about the Vietnam debate, he would know that most academicians agree with him: so either he is as ill-informed as the professors, or the professors he despises are as smart as he is.)

In fact I am, unlike Utley, a military professional. (With four years' active Air Force duty, I am now an Army Reserve captain and full-time Army employee.) But I respect books.

Great generals from Napoleon on have stressed that only people who read history can really understand war. Utley's contempt for books proves that his military opinions have little value. (Eyewitness combat accounts are notoriously unreliable until analyzed by military historians, incidentally. A soldier knows only what he saw: the historian knows what many soldiers saw.)

As for South Vietnamese soldiers, I doubt Utley saw as many regulars as he claims. Few GI's fought side-by-side with ARVN. As for the equipment we gave ARVN, if Utley knows anything about war, he knows that tanks, aircraft and weapons are useless without fuel, ammunition and spare parts. Even the North Vietnamese admit the Southerners were running out of these things after we cut our aid.

Utley's claim that 90 percent of booby-traps were made by Southerners is silly: booby-traps don't carry union labels. No one denies some Southerners supported the Reds, but strong evidence indicates it was a small percentage.

Let me stress that despite my disregard for Utley's attitudes, I admire and appreciate his service as a soldier. He carried a heavier burden in Vietnam than I did: for that, I apologize. I do not have to apologize for reading books, having college degrees — or knowing infinitely more about Vietnam than he does.

Writer lauds school teacher

EDITOR — There are times when just a personal thank-you just doesn't seem like enough, so we would like to take this opportunity to publicly say thank-you to one very fine teacher, Gary Kniffen of Savage School.

As parents of Mr. Kniffen's sixth grade class, we have watched this teacher give his students the incentive to want to learn. His extra sacrifices, especially this year, have taken most of the boredom out of just plain bookwork.

He believes that there are a lot of things that have to be experienced and not just read in order to be learned.

With this attitude he has taken the boys and girls on out-of-door hikes to learn about wildlife and wild plants, he taught them about edible wild plants.

He brought to his class room what seemed like a ton of rocks and minerals, they were able to study microscopic pond life by having a complete lesson on that subject and using microscopes to identify all their findings with, he taught them first-aid and they all received a first-aid card.

One student had a chance to use their knowledge when a friend cut their foot very badly. He gave of many hours coaching them in basketball so they could have inter-school games with a couple other elementary schools in the Van Buren district.

The students in his class have often said that they always want to give their best to Mr. Kniffen because he always gives them his best.

This community should rest assured that there are some of our teachers who are the "dedicated professionals" that we are always reminded about.

Some of our best teachers have lost sight of this during the unsettled contract years and in so doing have lost our respect. Some continue to teach in the manner in which they feel is important to give our children the necessary incentive to continue to strive for their own goals in life.

To these teachers we would like to say Thank-you. And especially thank-you Mr. Gary Kniffen for not bending under pressure to only do what is called for by your old contract. Thank-you for giving wholly of yourself.

Tribute to 'Bus' was excellent

EDITOR — Thank you for the coverage of the Ted Kuckelman Community Service Award tribute for my husband, W. Harold "Bus" Roberts.

It always makes me happy to realize that so many people appreciated Bus.

He lived his life in a way that made it possible for many people to receive inspiration from all he did. It was my privilege to represent him.

I appreciate the ANP's staff writer, Jim Bradley's excellence in conveying a portrait of my personal thoughts and feelings.

The article was so magnificently done and it allowed a wider audience to know him and perhaps gain inspiration from a life well-lived.

Bus loved Belleville. It is comforting to me to know that the entire community of Belleville shares my love for Bus.

Project Concern says 'Thank You'

EDITOR — On behalf of Project Concern and our many patients throughout the world, I want to express warmest thanks to the 200 walkers and 1905 sponsors who contributed to the success of last week's Walk for Mankind.

I especially appreciate the months of hard work and dedication on the part of volunteer Walk Directors Terry McGovern and Jeanette Schumacher and their committee of Jaycees and Jaycettes. They, along with the countless walkers, workers and sponsors, have done two important things:

First, they have provided us with tools with which to extend life saving care to countless people whose very future, in many cases, rests in our hands. Improved health care and basic medical/nutritional education were made available by us last year to over one million of the world's poorest people. This work will be greatly enhanced by the donations of your generous sponsors.

Secondly, the Walk for Mankind is a worthwhile, needed community event which confronts each of us with an opportunity to become personally involved in a positive, constructive effort to benefit others.

We're grateful for the support of your community, and salute your work to serve the needs of so many both at home and abroad.

Were we, as kids, short changed, on our education? Our parents faced the same problems then, that we are facing now. Our children are number one, just as we were.

Can we afford to short change, their chance on life? Some think of the most petty things to complain about when it comes to support the upcoming millage on June 8. I have studied the proposed school cuts and have found them to be adequate. Can we, put a dollar value on education?

I know the navy trains pilots, the average cost, runs just under one million dollars. One can not make it to the cockpit, when they are short changed on their foundation.

Weiser defends her editorial

EDITOR — In reference to Thomas Barrett's editorial of May 28th my answer is as follows:

Since it is not my intention to engage in character and personality assassination I refuse to be drawn into such an altercation; however for 30 years my family and I have been actively promoting and working for the welfare of our community and schools.

In such a capacity my good name was used to influence in a public relations capacity, the procuring of the passage of the 1977 19.6 million dollar bond issue for the Wayne-Westland schools.

Since I believe in working when appointed to a commission, especially where tax dollars are involved, it comes naturally to familiarize myself with all aspects of the workings of the project.

In such workings it of course, followed that I also inform the taxpayers-citizens of the actual usage of the bond and the money it generated in interest.

I stand by my Guest Editorial of May 21 100 percent since the figures presented were official releases from the W. W. school administration.

Story on Runaways was interesting

EDITOR — The staff of Out Wayne County Youth Services Coalition, Inc. wishes to again thank your publication for the article on our many diversified services for troubled teens in the local area.

Your paper has been instrumental in the past in providing us with a media outlet, and the ability to reach those families we otherwise could not.

Your article reinforces our program goals in a positive way, and this is the nucleus of our services. Again on behalf of all the staff. Thanks for your continued support.

Don't shortchange our children

EDITOR — To build a house, you need a strong foundation. To build on life, one needs a strong education.

Caught

EDITOR — Not since Hitler's goose-stepping horde's rampage has any group been so successful in destroying people on a mass scale. Arab and American oil interests started the rape of the civilized world as we know it. Now the Arab and American natural gas interests lend a hand. They've done their homework and learned their lesson well.

First, we the people are told there is an oil shortage and that gasoline will cost $2 a gallon. Then, when the time, we will accept it. No one will notice that, at $2 a gallon, OPEC has all the oil you want.

We are now told that the cost of natural gas will be 50 percent higher next year. By then, having been given time to digest this inflationary bit of information, we will, like the proverbial lamb being led to slaughter, docilely accept it. To make things worse, the American government — of, by, and for the people — stands placidly by and condones these unconscionable acts.

The dollar is good and we shall live by its golden rule: "Them that have the gold make the rules."

Respectfully submitted,

Welcome, Spring

The sweetest sound I ever heard
Was the song of a lovely bird
He sang a song so clear and sweet
A sign of spring a thrilling treat

If the birds wouldn't sweetly sing
Then it just wouldn't seem like spring
After winters long icy blast
I'm so glad that it's spring at last

I love to sniff the fragrant air
The smell of spring is everywhere
I love frogs singing day and night
And the warm spring days clear and bright

I love trees in new robes of green
Adorned with flowers like a queen
I welcome spring with open arms
A season that has many charms

All things waken from a long sleep
Flowers now bloom where snow was deep
I love Lilacs, in bloom once more
And tulips blooming by my door.

I love the golden daffodil
And to stroll over by the hill
To see wild flowers, growing free
Such beauty there for you and me.

The buttercups and violets too
Misted over with diamond dew
To walk through woodlands, and crystal streams
And meadows veiled with golden dreams.

Reflections

A world of fantasies

We were watching "Four Seasons" the other evening and as we watched the six couples cavorting around on "together" vacations, I nudged my husband and whispered, "Why can't we go on vacations with our friends and have all that fun!"

He chewed thoughtfully on his popcorn and then whispered back, "This is a movie, Dopey."

Naturally, I knew it was a movie, but I have always had the tendency to get lost in movies and books and think that I am actually living those fantasies.

"I want to try a vacation with friends again," I whispered as I watched the six couples on the screen jump into the lake...stark naked. Not that I would go swimming naked with a bunch of strangers, even though they were our very best friends, but then one never knows how far friendship can go, does one?

My husband emptied the popcorn box and then suggested that I get over drooling and try to remember the times we had gone on vacations with friends.

"Remember the time with Midge and Edgar?" he whispered.

"How could I forget?" I whispered back, and lost myself in remembering.

We hadn't been too far into marriage, just long enough to have a couple of kids, and we were still so entranced with that phenomenon that we took them with us everywhere we went. Midge and Edgar did the same, and so it was, one day when the autumn had painted the landscape golden, we dumped the four little kids into a car and the four of us with the four little kids took off for a heavenly three-day vacation on beautiful Glen Lake.

We Oh'ed and ah'ed at Michigan's vibrant colors and the blue waters of the lake lay shimmering in the sunlight as we drove up to the white cottage learning into the sandy beach.

While we were unpacking the kids had their own ideas about what being at the lake meant and they all went skinny dipping. This caused a lot of yelling between the mothers and fathers, because everyone thought everyone else was watching the kids.

But none of them drowned, although by the next morning a couple of them had high fevers and deep coughs, which put a damper on the fun and games.

Since mothers are what every kid wants when he is sick, it was the two mothers who nursed their little ones through that long, long day, while the father's went out and had fun on the lake...by themselves.

When they came in all glowing from a great day, Edgar rubbed his hands together and talked about popping popcorn over a roaring fire in the fireplace. "And then we can tell ghost stories," he beamed, "and have fun, fun, fun."

He built the fire and it boomeranged on him. Great clouds of black smoke rolled out at him and enveloped the room, and we all ended up on the beach gasping for the clean fresh air.

It took quite awhile to put the fire out, and get rid of the smoke, and by then it was dark and no one wanted to crawl up the chimney to see what the obstruction was.

We ended up popping the corn over the hot plate in the kitchen, and sitting around watching the rosy glow of the electric plate. We told each other how great it was, and how in the future we would laugh over this weekend, but that was before midnight rolled around, and all of the kids upchucked the popcorn and were miserably sick until morning, when they turned over on their pillows and slept peacefully until it was time to go home.

By that time they were all well. Not a fever could be felt and not a stomach was churning. And besides all that they were well rested.

Have you ever been in a car driving hundreds of miles with three other tired, grumpy adults, and four cheerful, hyper kids?

I shuddered a bit as I remembered, and then I nudged my husband. "Honey," I whispered. "What do you suppose ever happened to Midge and Edgar?"

thing always stayed the same: Franklin Roosevelt was always the president, Joe Louis was always the champ, and Paul Muni played everybody."

Ah... sounds great, doesn't it? But there's something else I recall. I recall that, after awhile, that sameness, that security, got to be repressive. We felt locked into following a certain path, and, once the path was chosen, any deviation was looked on as very near abnormal.

Especially for women. Women were housewives, teachers, secretaries. Period. Women are still housewives, teachers, or secretaries — but the difference is, now they have a choice. Now they can be engineers, computer programmers, truck drivers. If they want.

Sure, the world is tougher. Sure, the challenges are greater. But the choices are greater, too. So dream your dreams and channel your challenges — and if, along the way, you have to redeem your dreams and rechannel your challenges, the "nice" thing is, you have that choice.

Mona Grigg

If I were to graduate this year

If I were going to graduate this year (and I'm going to go ahead with this, even knowing that prefacing anything with "If I were" automatically renders it the purest of rhetoric and makes it, therefore, absolutely meaningless.)

I mean, the words instantly clue the reader (or listener, as the case may be) that the writer (speaker) can go anywhere from "If I were" without fear of contradiction.

He knows that he is not, will not, would not.

It is his own private little fantasy from there on. So... I would probably do one of three things: I would 1 — demand my money back (What do you mean, I can't afford college?)

What do you mean, there are no jobs?

What do you mean, you never promised me a rose garden?, or 2. I would demand a recount (What do you mean, it's been 13 years? I'm only a kid — what do I know? You're really gonna send me out to the wolves?), or 3. I would push back my shoulders and raise high my head (that's commencement talk, in case you didn't recognize it) and tell the world, "I'm gonna beat this thing."

I'm gonna make something of myself. I'm gonna make you proud! (I'm gonna barf)

See, the reason I can be so flip about this is that I've already graduated — long ago. So long ago that Donny and Marie weren't even born yet, thank the Heavens for small favors.

And so long ago that life was still on the simple side. When you graduated then, you did one of three things: 1. You got a job, 2) you got a job and-or went to school, or 3. you got a job and you got married. (Unless, in this last category, you were a girl — in which case, you skipped the job and just got married.)

The reason you were more likely to get a job was that it was much easier, then, to get a job than it was to go to school.

For one thing, you couldn't go to school unless you passed an entrance exam.

And you couldn't pass the entrance exam unless you had had foresight enough to spend the previous three or four years getting ready for it.

Then, if you passed the entrance exam, you had to pass the money test... unless you could pass the brains test — in which case you were probably eligible for a scholarship, which entitled you, if you were on the poor side, to on-the-job training busing tables in the cafeteria.

Which wasn't all bad, because, unless you were going to be an engineer or a teacher (back then, all boys who went to college were engineers, all girls were teachers).

But, on the whole, barring the Korean Conflict — and it was easy to bar, TV being in it's embryonic stage and not into gore yet — life was "nice" then. We thought the whole world was "nice". "Have a nice day" got it's start there, as I recall. Oh, there were some "not-so-nices," of course. But then, you assumed that it was strictly a local thing. All one had to do was to change locations and "nice" would be there waiting for you. As Hawkeye-Alan Alda once said, "I had a good kidhood. Every-

CHILDREN LOVE

IAN A. GRASSAM, D.C.

Chiropractic

And I . . . LOVE CHILDREN

Ask any doctor of chiropractic and he will tell you that children are among his favorite patients, and there are good reasons for this. First of all the children are delighted when they discover that adjustments do not hurt and there are no long needles or bitter medicines to take. Usually after their first visit they are eager to jump up on the table for their 'justment.' Secondly, the children's response to chiropractic is often amazing. It is commonplace in a chiropractor's office to see a child feeling and acting much better, minutes after his first adjustment, usually to the amazement of his happy parents. In fact, chiropractic doctors themselves are often very surprised when seeing a child feeling and acting much better, so fast. This is true with minor illnesses such as colds, flu, constipation, mumps, measles, rashes as well as the more serious conditions such as arthritis, polio, asthma, heart disease, allergies etc.

Children love chiropractic and chiropractors love children patients. The chiropractor works with the power of life and health that is in each of us. This life power flows over the nerves much as electricity flows over wires. When the power of life is blocked off in the spine there is a lack of life in some part of the body. This causes disharmony and the result is disease. The chiropractor's sole job is to find the blocked nerves in the spine and correct the blockage so that his life power can restore health.

Quite often several adjustments are needed in adults before the life power can do enough work to give the patient results. Children, on the other hand, are so "full of life," their bodies young and simple, their minds free from depressing worries and fears that they usually respond much more quickly and easily to chiropractic care.

Very often chiropractors see chronic illness and disease in adults that originated as some minor complaint in childhood. Many such conditions could be prevented if the parents would take advantage of early chiropractic care. Join the many modern mothers and fathers who are insuring their child's future health through chiropractic. The youngsters love chiropractic. The future of the world lies in the heads, hands, hearts, and health of today's children.

KEEP THAT HEALTHY HAPPY FEELING

CHILDREN LOVE CHIROPRACTIC

No one seems to put good health to such good use as do children. Smiling, laughing faces, busy hands, bright clear skin, playful voices, sparkling eyes, active little bodies and growing appetites all express that healthy, happy feeling that only children can express in such great abundance.

On the other hand, who is more pathetic than an ill or sickly child? Most everyone would rather endure pain themselves than to watch a child suffer. And the children themselves, dislike sickness most of all. They have no time for illness with so much to do, so much to learn, so much to see.

A Patients Story:

I had Pneumonia 13 times

I am asthmatic, and used to need six injections a week. I had to use the inhaler every day. If I played too hard I'd have an asthma attack.

I had pneumonia 13 times, and several times a year my folks had to rush me to emergency.

Fortunately, my mom got a job working for Dr. Grassam and she began bringing me in for adjustments. Now I hardly ever have an asthma attack and I don't need any medication. I can play and do anything I want.

I only wish we hadn't waited so long!

Helium-filled Space Pet keeps Wayne household on its toes

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Playtime Coordinator

Man's best friend? Move over canines, here comes the Space Pet, a helium-filled balloon that has a Wayne couple more than a little excited.

So enthused, in fact, that Joe and Anita Tarnopolski have formed a company — J. A. Tarno & Sons — to distribute the Space Pet throughout Michigan. This metal-covered balloon features a patented weight system which allows the pet to hover indoors without a string.

"I couldn't believe it the first time I saw one of these things," declared Tarnopolski as a Space Pet floated at eye level through the newspaper office. "I had heard of balloons filled with helium on strings but nothing like this."

Changes in atmospheric conditions or adjustment of the weights on the bottom of the balloon control the Space Pet's altitude. If your pet ends up on the ceiling, too many tabs have been removed and if it sits on the floor, more tabs must come off. Each tab can raise or lower the pet's height from one to two feet.

Life expectancy for the Space Pet is two to four weeks at which time it will settle due to helium loss. Within that period of time, your life could be changed, the Tarnopolskis point out. And they're talking from experience.

"We lost our first one, Lunar, when I left the door open," Mrs. Tarnopolski recalled. "I thought it might be hiding so I searched the whole house before realizing what had happened. It's strictly an indoor pet."

"We missed it after awhile," she continued, "so we've gotten a new one, named Gilda. I wanted to call her Golden but she's silvery."

The Space Pet has travelled throughout the Tarnopols-ki's two-story home in Wayne, causing its share of friendly havoc for the couple and their sons, Joe and Alan.

"It loves the closets," Tarnopolski said, "and it has found its way into the bathtub at times. Once it woke me up at 2 a.m. floating around my head. I tapped it away and went back to sleep."

Little wonder that the distributors tell prospective dealers of the ways in which owners become attached to their Space Pet. Or that some 60 percent of the return business comes from adults aged 40 and older who find a need to replace their pet after it has "died."

"This pet is already selling very well in the South and in Canada," said Tarnopolski. "It's safe for children and is educational too. It demonstrates the change in barometric pressure and temperature and traces the air currents in a home or school."

With the exclusive rights to market the Space Pet in this state, the Tarnopolskis are confident that a balloon which retails for $3.95 could turn out to be a fulltime business venture. And all because of an ad in an Albuquerque newspaper.

"We answered an ad in the Albuquerque Journal regarding a new business idea," explained Tarnopolski, "and it turned out to be the Space Pet."

"At the time we were looking to prepare ourselves in case I were to get laid off," added the distributor, who is employed as a boiler operator at the Ford Motor Co. Wayne assembly plant. "Everyone we've talked to about the Space Pet has been very interested."

Tarnopolski said that his family could be contacted at 326-6848 for a closer look at this pet. As one midwestern distributor noted, "It's quite an item... really goofy but people seem to like it."

The Tarnopolski family certainly does.

No, miniature alien beings have not decided to invade Wayne. Anita and Joe Tarnopolski are simply admiring their Space Pet, a helium filled balloon which can hover in space with the aid of a unique weight system. The Wayne couple will serve as the sole distributor for the Space Pet in Michigan.

'Outland' is best science fiction film since 'Alien'

"Outland" From Warner Bros. Pictures. Written and directed by Peter Hyams. Produced by Richard Roth. Starring Sean Connery and Peter Boyle. Rated "R."

By STEVE WALZ
Special to Playtime

Considering the amount of intergalactic hardware displayed in previous feature sci-fi flicks and tele-series, "Outland" is a pleasant departure from the iffy formula.

"Outland" relies on plot first — which takes us to an Earth mining outpost on Jupiter's moon, Io.

There we discover that a major conglomerate reaps big bucks from Io's mineral rich surface with high-priced mining wildcatters working round the clock. The pressures of producing are such, that some of the men commit instant suicide by plunging into the netherworld of outer space sans spacesuit.

To keep Io's population from becoming unruly,

Earth assigns Federal District Marshall William O'Neil (Sean Connery) to keep the peace. O'Neil is known to be an overzealous troubleshooter who's been kicked around the solar system.

Because of this, O'Neil's marriage has taken a turn for the worse. His son has never even seen Earth, and his wife can't take much more of the artificial environs.

In the meantime as O'Neil begins his tour of duty, he encounters a dramatic rise in the number of suicides. He whisks himself off to the base hospital where he asks the head doctor, a feisty old maid by the name of Lazarus (Frances Sternhagen), to find some correlation between these deaths.

Sure enough, O'Neil discovers that an expensive drug dealing operation, which involves members of the conglomerate and his own police force, has had a devastating effect on the populace.

With the odds seemingly stacked against him, O'Neil proceeds to take on the whole planet singlehandedly. Yes, folks, this is an outer space version of "High Noon," with tinges of James Bond thrown in, just to keep the audience in touch with Connery's persona.

This is the kind of role that plays to Connery's strengths as an actor and he delivers a knockout performance. His best sequences are with Frances Sternhagen, engaging in verbal fisticuffs but with sneaking admiration for each other.

To wit, the chase sequences, amidst the dark, artificial and expansive environs of the outpost, are spintangling. There are no futuristic weapons to duel with. High-powered rifles do just fine in a space western. The photography keeps your eyes riveted to the screen, although there are times when the camerawork tries to make up for some minor storyline deficiencies which can be just a bit monotonous.

The bottom line is this — "Outland" is the best sci-fi flick since "Alien." I can envision a sequel or two within the framework of Connery's character, that is, if the box-office dictates such an undertaking.

Natasha Ibrahim of Wayne examines a map of Europe to find places to visit when she performs with the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's choir during the upcoming month in Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland and Germany. The trip is part of the 12th annual Blue Lake International Exchange Program.

mer by friends from Goteborg, Sweden, Kuhn and Potter, both Westland residents, will join 252 Blue Lake musicians on a month-long tour of Europe starting next week.

Local youths headed for Europe

Three local musicians are scheduled to begin a month-long tour of Europe next week as participants in the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp's 12th annual International Exchange Program.

Allen Kuhn and Morton Potter of Westland and Natasha Ibrahim of Wayne will be among 252 musicians in four groups — band, orchestra, choir and jazz band — to perform in Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland and Germany. Nine musical groups will visit Michigan as part of the exchange format starting with an eight-day concert tour by a 25-member chamber orchestra from Lerum, Sweden later this month.

Kuhn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kuhn, is a band member, while Potter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mort Potter Sr., performs in the orchestra. Ibrahim, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dolour Ibrahim, is a choir member.

The highlight of the Scandinavian tour will be a week in Denmark, the seventh time since 1970 that Blue Lake groups have visited Denmark. Blue Lake's international band, orchestra, choir and jazz band will perform in Denmark at the same time that one of the country's most famous sons — Victor Borge — is appearing at Blue Lake.

Borge is scheduled to perform at Blue Lake on July 11 as part of the Highlights Concert Series while the Blue Lake International Jazz Band is set to present an outdoor concert at the Tivoli Park in Copenhagen on July 10. On July 12 the International Band and Orchestra will appear in the Tivoli Concert Hall, the first time a Blue Lake group has played the famed hall.

Greenfield Village features gospel music performance

Americans have been raising their voices to praise God from the earliest Colonial days. The rich variety of American sacred music will be featured June 13 and 14 during "Early Gospel Music Days" at Greenfield Village.

The two-day program of sacred music ranges from late 18th century psalmody to early 20th century bluegrass style. Several noted groups will perform from 1 to 5 p.m. on the Village Activity Field.

The Isaiah Thomas Singers under the direction of David McKay will perform New England sacred music of the 18th and early 19th centuries. They will sing psalmody, psalms set to composed and traditional music.

The black gospel tradition is represented by soloist Hulah Gene Hurly, the Thomason Sisters trio and the Talmadge Turner Chorale under the direction of Talmadge Turner. The music ranges from spirituals to traditional black soul choral arrangements to more recent compositions in the black tradition.

The Ann Arbor Sacred Harp Singers present the 19th and early 20th century Southern shape-note singing style. This style developed from a musical notation system used in some sacred music books of the period.

The country bluegrass gospel style made famous by the Carter family will be performed by the Phipps Family of Kentucky. The Phipps Family uses guitar and auto harp to accompany four singers.

This is the first time a gospel music program has been presented at the Village. No additional charge is made for this special event beyond the regular admission of $8 for adults, $4 for children six through 12, $6.50 for senior citizens. Children under six are admitted free of charge.

Homemade strawberry ice cream

A strawberry festival is America's way of celebrating its love affair with its most famous berry. Dip 'em, dunk 'em, shake 'em, bake 'em, freeze 'em or squeeze 'em — everybody loves strawberries.

Whether served at a crafts or county fair, school carnival, church bazaar or supper or Belleville's annual festival, strawberries are a welcome addition.

Establish your reputation as a strawberry expert by using strawberries all summer long. And with a little planning ahead, you can even enjoy strawberries all year long. Since strawberry season will soon be in full swing, now is the time to take advantage.

Reserve some sunshine for next winter by making classic strawberry jams and jellies. Freeze strawberries whole and delicious or slice and sugar them before freezing. Strawberries have a way of cheering everybody out of the winter doldrums. They'll be wonderful in blender drinks, fruit salads, parfaits and in quick Berry Blender Ice Cream.

This summer, when the ice cream freezer is handy and there are plenty of "volunteers" around to help turn it, Old-Fashioned Strawberry Ice Cream is as good as you remember. Not as rich as some, this recipe makes up lots of deliciously refreshing ice cream to cool you off on a hot summer day.

Berry Blender Ice Cream

1 pint strawberries, washed and stemmed (about 3 cups)
½ cup whipping cream
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Early in the day: arrange berries in shallow pan or ice cube trays (large berries should be halved). Freeze. A few minutes before serving, remove berries from freezer. Put cream, eggs and sugar in blender container. Whirl 2 seconds. With motor on high, drop in frozen berries, one at a time. Whirl smooth, stopping motor when necessary to stir thick mixture with rubber spatula. Stir in lemon juice. Spoon into serving dishes. Serve at once or store in freezer, removing 15 to 20 minutes before serving to soften slightly. Makes about 2½ cups, or 4 to 5 servings.

Strawberry Ice Cream

2 pints fresh strawberries, coarsely chopped
1 tablespoon lime juice
¾ cup sugar
2 cups half and half
Dash salt
2 eggs, beaten
1½ teaspoons vanilla

In small bowl, mix berries with lime juice and ½ cup of the sugar. Set aside. In saucepan combine half and half, salt, beaten eggs and remaining ½ cup sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring, until sugar dissolves and mixture coats spoon, about 12 to 15 minutes. Cool. Add vanilla and berries. Freeze in 2-quart hand crank or electric ice cream maker following manufacturer's instructions. Serve at once, or store in freezer, removing 15 to 20 minutes before serving to soften slightly. Makes about 2 quarts.

Freezing fresh strawberries

Extra frozen berries are handy. Add to blender drinks, or use to garnish desserts and fruit salads. Arrange berries in shallow pan or ice cube trays. Freeze; then pack frozen berries in plastic bags. Close bag airtight with twist. (Freezing berries before bagging speeds the freezing process and prevents bruising.) Frozen strawberries will retain color, texture and flavor longer when packed with sugar or syrup in plastic bags or freezer containers.

Kay Halton is recipient of BPW scholarship

The June 1 meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club under the leadership of president Georgia Badgett and arrangement of the Bulletin Committee, Midge Artley, Ginny Bruder, Vira McGrane and Esther Smith, was definitely "Strawberry Time" oriented and decorated. Plans for the club's participation at the Strawberry Festival June 19-21 were finalized and jewelry, ceramics and tote bags will be sold at its booth on the grounds at St. Anthony's parish.

Traditionally a highlight at the June meeting is the awarding of a scholarship to a Belleville High School girl. This year's honor went to Lynn Kathleen Halton. She has participated in many activities at Belleville High and plans to continue her education at the University of Michigan. Guests with Lynn were her mother, Mrs. Barbara Halton, and Miss Diane Isherwood, Belleville High School counselor.

Members who attended the 63rd Annual State Convention at Kalamazoo Hilton Center May 29-31 reported on the clubs' and states' "Action for You and Action by You." Ila J. Smith was installed as the new State BPW President.

Other highlights included business by President Marlene Danol; Past President Virginia Allan; National Federation president-elect, Phyllis Harrison, who will be installed at the convention in San Francisco which six local BPW members will attend. National representative Winifred E. Lethbridge of Concord, N.H. was featured instructor and speaker.

June 19 will be the concluding bingo meeting at Evergreen Hills Convalescent Home for the Humanitarian Club year project.

Three new names, Marie L. Knopp, Connie M. Stoelton and Marguerite F. White, have been added to the list of Belleville BPW members. They will assist with the July 13 picnic at the home of Ann O'Beay. Guests are welcome. Phone 697-9551 for further information.

Murphy, Majtyka wed June 6

MRS. MARVIN D. MURPHY

St. Stephen's Catholic Church in New Boston was the setting June 6 for the double ring rite which joined Elizabeth Ann Majtyka and Marvin Dale Murphy in holy matrimony.

The Rev. Alexander Wytral presided at the four o'clock ceremony before some 350 assembled relatives and friends including parents of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Majtyka of 28470 Haggerty Road and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Murphy of 40355 Willow Road, all in New Boston.

Music for the late spring wedding was played by Mrs. Dorothy Roberts at the organ and sung by Robert Michniewicz.

Escorted to the sanctuary by her father, Elizabeth was gowned in a Chantilly lace and satin creation, the little fitted bodice being designed with a ruffled oval neckline inter-woven with satin ribbon and outlined in lace. Long fitted sleeves, ruffled at the wrist, and a bouffant skirt comprised of tiers of lace were other styling details on the toe-touching gown.

Her full-length veil of silk illusion was banded in matching lace and her bouquet was made up of daisies, carnations, baby's breath and roses in cascade fashion.

As her sister-in-law's honor attendant Mrs. Cindy Majtyka of Livonia donned a formal gown of pleated lace and carried a lace fan embellished with daisies, carnations, straw flowers and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids in identical pink ensembles were Mrs. Wendy McKnight of New Boston and Mrs. Pat Majtyka of Carleton, also sisters-in-law: Mrs. Marty Neddo of Dundee; Mrs. Cathy Murphy of Belleville, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; and Mrs. James Hubert of Carleton.

Youngsters in the bridal coterie were Sarah Majtyka and Ryan McKnight, both three years old. Sarah, for her role as flower girl, wore a long blue lace frock and matching bonnet and held a basket filled with daisies and carnations.

Best man was the bride's brother, David Majtyka of Carleton. Groomsmen included Claude Mc Knight of New Boston, a brother-in-law; Joseph Majtyka of Livonia, brother of the bride; Marty Neddo of Dundee; Mark Murphy of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and James Hubert of Carleton.

The new Mrs. Murphy is a 1976 graduate of Huron High School where her husband earned his diploma in 1974. At present, he is working for Vamp Company of Trenton.

The rehearsal party was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at their home on Willow Road.

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

Another era has ended! And with it goes a years-old saying which BG originated some time back when the kids were barely able to understand what he was intimating.

The golf course at the Ypsilanti State Hospital is no more. A place I pass weekly enroute to work, it took BG's sharp eyes (he can spot a raccoon foraging in brush while on cruise control in our 55-a-miler) to see that the once-lush greens had been worked over, done away with.

Since BG, my dad and brothers and lots of other duffers we know became afflicted with woods-and-iron-fever on that very course, it's with a bit of nostalgia that we mourn its passing. You see, at one time the employees as well as the inmates of the hospital were allowed to use the 9-hole free of charge and even families visiting patients were afforded that courtesy.

And that's how Mr. Wise Guy came to coin "Free golf, free golf!" It got so that everytime yours truly did anything the least bit addepleted (or nutty, if you prefer), he got to envisioning himself out on those fairways — me committed; him shooting par golf.

It even got so our girls would tune into anything the least bit abnormal (sugar bowl in the 'fridge, washer going through an entire cycle with no clothes inside, THAT sort of silliness) and greet their dad with "Free golf, dad, — wanta know what mom did TODAY?" (Bunch of smart alecs, let me tell 'ya.)

But now, at long last (and, admittedly, when I DON'T have both oars in the water) the old saying no longer has any bearing. Those groundskeepers at YSH just don't know what they did to a fella who'd harbored such ulterior motives for so many years!

CONGRATULATIONS and the best of luck to all our graduating seniors at Belleville, Romulus and Huron High Schools. And to all those earning college diplomas, that goes double!

HAVE YOU BEEN taking advantage of the sudden drop in sugar prices and stocking up for those jam-sessions which, with the coming abundance of strawberries in this area, are a "must" for homemakers?

The recipe for that marvelous uncooked freezer jam comes with the powdered pectin you'll be purchasing for that purpose so no need to take up space with those directions.

Instead, here (from the Cooperative Extension Service) are the how-to's for sugar-free freezer jam which those counting calories and those with medical problems should appreciate since one tablespoon of the stuff will only cost you five calories.

SUGARLESS FREEZER JAM

1½ tsp. unflavored gelatin
1½ T. cold water
3 c. crushed strawberries
1½ tsp. liquid sweetener
¼ tsp. ascorbic acid powder
red food coloring, if desired

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine strawberries and sweetener in a saucepan. Place over high heat and stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat; add softened gelatin; return to heat and continue to cook for one minute. Remove from heat; blend in ascorbic acid powder and food coloring. Ladle into clean jars; seal and store in refrigerator or freezer.

IF YOU'VE NEVER given any thought to just how our highly-esteemed strawberry came to be, you should have! I can say that (smart off) now that I've received a release from those in-the-know.

Ancestors of the strawberry came from both North and South America. In the 1700's, French explorers discovered a plump red berry being cultivated by the Indians of Chile in South America. They took several plants back to France and crossed them with a wild meadow strawberry discovered a few years earlier in the North American colony of Virginia. The resulting berry was a forerunner of our modern berry... that side trip to France and a few centuries later culminating in so much pleasure for the American palate.

STILL MORE ABOUT THE AVERAGE AMERICAN

Americans spend $2.5 billion a year buying commercial food for their pets — the equivalent of $11.50 for each human in the country.

About one American in 15 has a passport. Six passport applicants in 10 say they are going to Europe and one in four plans to visit Germany.

The average car is driven 12,000 miles each year.

The average American drinks nine cans or bottles of beer for every draft brew.

The people of only two countries — the Soviet Union and Poland — outdrink Americans. In the U.S., the equivalent of 5.8 liters of 100-proof alcohol is drunk per person per year. Russians down 14.8 liters and the Poles 6.8. West Germans, Swedes, Yugoslavs, East Germans and Spaniards fall next in the drinking order.

A quarter of the graduates recruited on college campuses change companies within three years.

In the average week, 7,000 newspaper readers write to Ann Landers for advice.

A survey by the Psychology Department of the University of Colorado suggests that few trial separations result in reconciliation. Eighty-seven percent end in divorce.

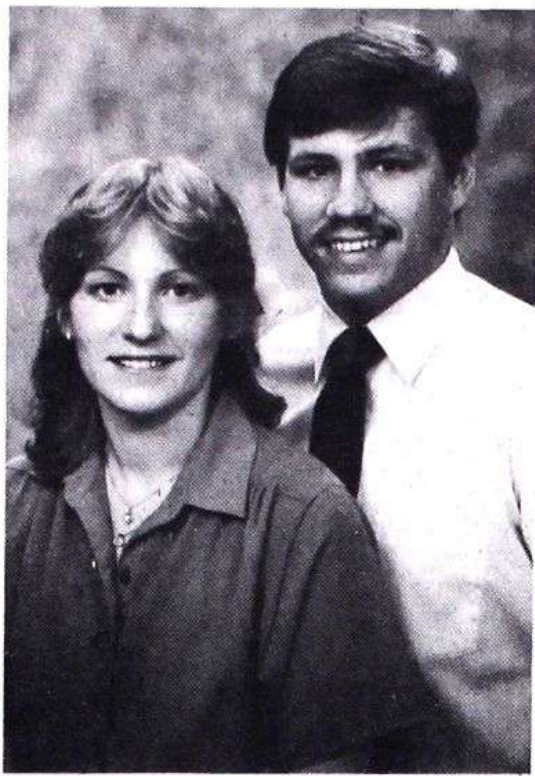

One American dies in an accident every 5½ minutes and one is injured in an accident every 20 seconds.

THE BOTTOM LINE: America is a country that doesn't know where it is going but is determined to set a speed record getting there.

major problem."

Can Chiefs go all the way?

Canton captures region baseball title

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Plymouth Canton, a perennial powerhouse under Coach Fred Crissey, won the regional baseball title Saturday at Wyandotte with convincing victories over Taylor Center and Temperance Bedford.

Senior Dave Malek fired a 5-hitter in blanking the Rams, 9-0, in Saturday's opener. Junior Dan Smith ran his unbeaten record to 13-0 on the mound as he scattered seven hits in beating Bedford in the second game for the regional title.

The red-hot Chiefs, who have set a record for most wins in a season with 28, were scheduled to face Bishop Gallagher Tuesday afternoon at Grosse Pointe North in the semi-finals for the state championship playoffs.

Gallagher, who Canton beat earlier this season, 15-8, sports a record of 29-8 to the Chiefs' brilliant 28-2 slate. The only two blemishes on an otherwise perfect season is a 6-3 loss to Wayne Memorial and a 9-3 defeat in a doubleheader split with Clay Highschool (South Bend, Ind.), which was ranked second in that state.

Crissey's joy over winning the regional title Saturday was diminished greatly by what he calls "a travesty at Grosse Pointe North" and the set-up as Canton went into Tuesday's semi-finals.

"I think it's a travesty," the fiery Cris-

"I have great respect for Bishop Gallagher and their fine coach. Put fair is fair and I think at this level, we should flip to see who is home team and the umpires definitely should be hired by someone other than one of the participating teams," Crissey charged.

Crissey always seems to mold a winner at Canton every year.

"These kids decided that they wanted to be the best they could be and put their priorities in order some time ago. They put school first, baseball second and

SUE MEYER

Miss Meyer had labored long and hard all winter long to get ready for the high school softball season, according to Coach Peggy Curtis. Then the unexpected, but frequently occurring happened. Sue sustained a shoulder injury a week before the curtains were to go up on the 1981 campaign.

"She had to make some adjustments in the style of her pitching," explained Coach Curtis. "At first she used the windmill but with the injury she was forced to switch to the slingshot — and I don't have to tell you that any time you make such a radical change in style it takes time to develop."

It took a lot of patience and work, but eventually it all came together.

Especially at the Bedford Temperance tournament where the young athlete looked unbeatable.

With her eyes on Central Michigan University as her next stop for schooling and athletics, Miss Meyer won't have to worry about aging sports columnist. Or will she.

Belleville had an excellent out-of-league season where the Tigers won 20 of their 28 games. But seven of their losses were in the Suburban 8 Conference and the obvious question was asked of the coach.

"We had a tough league this year," Coach Curtis replied to 'how come.' "Believe me, there wasn't a team in the league that wasn't or didn't look improved."

Lafayette Allen voted to Hall of Fame

Lafayette Allen Voted into Hall of Fame

Another local athlete who was given a unique honor this week is Lafayette Allen Jr., who was named to the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame.

The 60-year-old Allen who has been instrumental in organizing and pushing the careers of many young, black bowlers will be inducted into the "Hall" in ceremonies this November at Cobo Hall.

"I feel honored to be selected," said Allen yesterday. "It is something I am very proud of."

In their letter to Allen, the Hall of Fame selection committee listed the recipient's contributions to the sport. The letter, in part, said:

"Allen pioneered into the development and the progress of black bowlers. His Allen Supermarket team was the first of great teams of blacks who appeared in major tournaments."

"In 1951, in St. Paul Minnesota, his line-up was the first team of blacks to bowl in the annual ABC (American Bowling Congress) tournament."

"His continuous sponsorships of black teams and individuals and promotions brought together black and noted white kегlers and brought about an emergence of blacks in bowling that continues to accelerate."

It is an honor, indeed, to have such a man among us.

Parsons to compete at Flat Rock Speedway

A little extra flavor has been added to the already special Champion Spark Plug Night at Flat Rock Speedway on Saturday, June 20, with the announcement that up and coming NASCAR driver Phil Parsons will be on hand to compete in the Late Model division.

The 23-year-old former Detroit native, who now lives in High Point, North Carolina, will be at the wheel of the very competitive Bob Fox #56 Camaro. Bob finished second in a 75 lap feature at Flat Rock on May 30.

Phil was named the 1978 Rookie of the Year in the NASCAR International Sedan Series. He is currently competing on the NASCAR Late Model Sportsman circuit, and finished fourth in the 1981 ARCA 200 at Daytona in February. The younger brother of former ARCA and NASCAR champion Benny Parsons, Phil has his sights set on landing a ride on the NASCAR Winston Cup Tour in the very near future.

Phil has taken a huge step towards that goal by acquiring the sponsorship of the Skoal Chewing Tobacco-Mach I Racing Team, which maintains the cars of Harry Gant and Stan Barrett on the NASCAR tour. Parsons is in Michigan to work in the pit area for the Skoal Team at Michigan International Speedway on June 21.

The Late Models, Figure 8's, and Street Stocks will all be in action on Champion Spark Plug Night, June 20, at Flat Rock Speedway. Join us for an exciting evening of stock car racing and see future NASCAR star Phil Parsons do battle with the Late Model drivers on the 1/4 mile asphalt oval.

Time trials begin at 6:30 and racing at 8:00 p.m. The track is located 1 mile south of Flat Rock on Telegraph Road.

Rockets end title drought

Paz, Tony Dalimonte, Mike Pranke, Mike Taig, Mike Dest, Bob Wenderski, Joe Drabik. Not available at the time of the photo is team member Tim Filary. The Rockets finished the 1981 campaign with a 7-3 league record which was duplicated by Thurston. They earned an over-all 18-7 record.

Softballers swing into action

Jac's Lounge survives scare

Unbeaten Jac's Lounge got a scare and survived to turn back second place Air Transports as Linda Lyon scored the winning run in an 8-6 victory last week.

Jac's, with an untainted 4-0 record, has a 2-game cushion over its third place rival in the Romulus Parks and Recreation Class B softball league.

In the meantime, Dobb's House continued its skid as the cellar-dweller fell 18-3 to F.X. Coughlin which padded its over-all record to 2-1.

Over in Class A, three women's teams: Puffer Red Record, Progressive Club and Total Petroleum continue to wage a torrid race for the league lead.

In an extra innings affair, Progressive Club pulled out an exciting 11-6 victory over Suburban Oil thanks to Sherry Hadniak who scored the winning run in the eighth inning.

Total Petroleum and Puffer Red swung it out and Total earned a close victory 4-3 as Suzanne Fitzpatrick provided the key hit and run.

In another cliffhanger, Morgan Collision won an eighth inning 8-7 decision from Little Caesar's as Tonya Graves belted the winning hit.

Over in men's Class A action, Captain Nemo stretched its winning streak to six games at the expense of Bates & Sons, 17-12. Close all the way, the league-leader needed a sixth inning rally to shake their rivals.

Romulus Tire overpowered Hal's Market 16-8 as Larry Chesna sliced four hits in five appearances at the plate and Bob Moffet stroked two for three for the winners.

Savage Hitch didn't need to sweat as it picked up its second win in six outings when Tom's Tavern was a "no show".

Over in the men's Class B circuit, Johnny Hoffman drilled three hits to lead league-leading Michigan Bell to a lopsided 14-4 victory over Drysdale Pallets.

Mark Bratcher went 4-for-4, including a pair of circuit clouts, as VFW buried Walters 15-4 in other Class B action.

Double Eagle made short work of Crova as it chalked up a "mercy rule" victory over its rivals, 29-5, while Speedy Printing had its hands full in beating a tenacious Johny's Party Store, 14-12.

Magic gone, Franklin is ousted

The magic was gone from Livonia Franklin's bats Saturday as Coach Gerry Cullin's Patriots lost a tournament-ousting decision to Bishop Gallagher in the first round of the Class A Regional Baseball Playoffs held at Grosse Pointe North.

Gallagher advanced to the finals where they met and slaughtered Warren Towers 23-2.

Scoring three runs off of losing pitcher Brad George, Bishop Gallagher wasted little time displaying the hitting strength that lifted them to the regional championship and a lopsided 11-1 victory over the Patriots.

Although George, a senior, went the distance, he failed to get the defensive as well as offensive support from his teammates. Franklin committed five errors and banded out five hits, while averting the shutout in the fifth when they scored their only run.

"When you lose to a team like Gallagher you can have no regrets," said Coach Cullin afterwards. "They are definitely the finest team we have seen all season and they're going to be tough to beat in the stretch because of their overall strength."

George, who gave up seven hits — two of those homers, struck out four and walked four in digesting the loss. Winner Tom Davies scattered five Franklin hits, notched eight whiffs and walked three.

"I know that this may sound like sour grapes," Cullin said, "but those fences over at North were less than 300 feet down the line. I know I paced them off. I think it was unfair because if those home run balls were hit in our field, they would have been easily caught."

Franklin ended the 1981 campaign with a 11-15 over-all record which Cullin labeled as "disappointing".

"The reason why I have to say it was a disappointing year for us is because we had three starting pitchers coming back off of last year's team and I felt we would have a much better record than we did."

"Really hurts, and I don't want to elaborate on this, but when you think you have gathered what you feel is an excellent team and suddenly some little thing goes wrong, well it's tough," the Patriot coach concluded.

Brewers' winning streak reaches 18 in South

The Brewers of Romulus South Senior Little League have proven they are the class of the league this season. With impressive victories last week, the undefeated Brewers extended their winning streak to 17 games as Barry Baumann's club chalked up three more wins last week. But two weren't easy. The Phillies, an expansion team managed by new manager Larry Oaks, gave the leaders a scare as pitcher Tom Carretto allowed only 5 hits. But Kevin Hess, the Brewers starter, was near perfect. Joel Smith, who came in to slam the door on the Phillies rally, picked up the 4-2 win. The Mets, managed by Chuck Wilcox also gave the Brewers fits. With superb pitching by Mike Panek, the Mets took a 2-0 going into the late innings. However, strong pitching by Chris Marsiglia kept the Brewers close, while closing the gap, and going into extra innings to pick up a 3-2 hard fought victory. Next game found the Brewers striking for 15 runs in the first two innings in downing the Giants 19-1. Other games saw the Mets lose another close game 6-5 to the Cardinals, managed by Len Ottenbriet. David Ble-vins paced the Cardinal hitting. The Phillies also split games, winning a stunning 8-3 victory over the Cardinals, while dropping a rain shortened 5-1 game to the Giants earlier in the week. In games this week, the Brewers will meet the Cardinals and Mets, while the Giants face the Phillies, Cardinals, and Mets.

Belleville places 2 on All-Sub 8 team

Belleville, which fielded its finest high school baseball team in over a decade, earned two spots in the first team all-Suburban 8 Conference club this year. Coach Tom Fielder's co-champions also gained consideration for a three positions on the second team after chalking up a 10-2 league record which earned them a share of the conference championship. Both Belleville and Bentley had identical 10-2 league records. Named to the league's First Team were pitcher Larry Petrowski and outfielder Jim Daniels. Second team recognition was given to catcher Greg Brinkerhoff, first baseman Kelvin Roberts and outfielder Jeff Morris, while honorable mention went to Tigers infielders Rob Linter, Dave Leblanc and Sam Villa, a junior pitcher. Petrowski, also a junior, was near perfect in his eight starts on the mound for Belleville this season. He won seven of those eight games and posted a 1.60 ERA as he struck out 58 and walked 21 in 56 2/3 innings of work. Daniels batted .353 in the league. He appeared at the plate 34 times and latched on to 12 hits. He also knocked in six runs. Fielder, who rounded out his rookie season as head coach, guided the Tigers to a 16-11 over-all record, their best record in more than a decade. "I think the character of this team emerged when the pressure was on," Fielder said. "The kids never quit and were in all the games they played in. I really am enthused about the future of baseball at our school. The prospects are great."

June 20 Louis Kerman Memorial Bike-A-Thon to aid diabetic children

The first annual Louis Kerman Memorial Bike-A-Thon will be held on Saturday, June 20th, on the Edward Hines Drive bikepath between the hours of 9 and 4. The Bike-A-Thon honors the memory of Louis Kerman, founder of Bob's Bicycle Shop, who died of the complications of diabetes five years ago. His son Paul, who runs the family business in Redford Township now called Bob's Cycle Shop, has wanted to do something special in his father's name for some time and hit on the idea of a Bike-A-Thon to benefit the American Diabetes Association-Michigan Affiliate. "My father loved kids, and was loved by them," says Paul, "so I decided to do something to fight this country's number 3 killer — diabetes." Paul has written to all of his customers, past and present, and invited them to come out with their family and friends for a day of biking and sunshine. Proceeds of the Bike-A-Thon will help support programs of the American Diabetes Association including a summer camp for diabetic children. To participate, bikers must obtain an entry form and enlist sponsors to pledge money for each mile ridden. The top fundraiser will win a 12-speed bike. Entry forms can be obtained by calling the American Diabetes Association at 342-9333 or by writing to the Association at 6131 West Outer Drive, Detroit 48235.

Canton captures region crown

activities third. This is the crazy time of the year for seniors, with skip day, seniors banquet, and a host of other activities that keep the high school kids going all the time.
"The boys decided what they wanted most of all and they went out and accomplished it," Crissey said.
They accomplished it Saturday—that's for sure.
Malek gave the Chiefs the edge in firing his 5-hit shutout against Taylor Center. In running his record to 8-1 on the season, the veteran senior fanned seven and walked three. Meanwhile, his teammates came to life in the third inning to break a scoreless tie.

Third sacker Fred Rumberger singled and with one out, shortstop Steve Schumacher walked and Jeff Cousino rapped a two RBI single to left. Rumberger, who had three hits in the game, singled to ignite a 3-run uprising in the bottom of the fifth. Keith Stone singled and Schumacher laid down a beautiful bunt to set up Cousino's second 1-RBI single of the game. First Sacker Jeff Stemberger, who leads Canton's batters with a sterling .471 mark, singled home Cousino.

The Chiefs rounded out the scoring in the 6th. Second sacker Scott Bricker singled and Dan Smith struck out, but the catcher dropped the ball and Smith raced to first.
Rumberger's single chased home Bricker and sent Smith to third. Stone squeezed home Smith from third with a perfect bunt and beat the throw for a basehit. On a hit-and-run, Schumacher singled and Rumberger and Stone both came all the way home to round out the scoring at 9-0.

Junior Daf Smith, who ran his record to a brilliant 13-0, scattered seven hits, fanned five and walked only one in his route-going performance. And he didn't permit a run until after Canton had put a virtual "lock" on the game with a big 6-run fourth inning explosion.
Jeff Stemberger, whose brother Brian was an All-State shortstop at Canton several years ago, started the uprising when Bedford's third sacker gloved his grounder but fired in the dirt at first base. Designated Hitter Brian Capnerhurst walked and catcher Bill Hanis beat out a perfect bunt to load the sacks.

Smith fanned, but Bricker walked, forcing in Stemberger. Rumberger lofted a long fly to left and when the outer-gardener tried to throw too quickly, the ball dropped and the sacks were jammed again. Keith Stone then blasted a 400-foot triple over the centerfielder's head and rode home on Schumacher's single to end Canton's scoring for the day. But it was plenty.

A mild uprising by Bedford in the top of the 6th inning only added a little excitement to the game.
Bedford, sporting an 18-4 record coming into the game scored two runs in the 6th. Lead-off batter Steve Bowron walked and raced to third on a double by John Szielski. Left fielder Bill Stoner then rapped a double to left-center to deliver both runners.

"We had to scrap and fight to win it," Crissey explained. "I thought our defense and ability to bunt, plus our fine pitching won it for us. This team is young—16 juniors, two sophomores and only five seniors. They not only set a record of the most victories in one season—28—beating the previous high of 26 in 1978, but they will either tie or beat the mark of three losses in one season."

Crissey said Canton finished second in the state high school coaches' poll which is taken seven times a year. Grosse Pointe North finished first in the latest poll and they are out of the state playoffs.

Crissey praised several hitters for their high averages. Schumacher has 34 hits in 84 trips for a .405 mark; Junior Scott Bricker has 32 for 78 (.410); Junior Jeff Cousino has 23.61 (.377); Bill Hanis has 26.70 (.371) and Keith Stone has 31.85 for a .365 average.

Dennis is referee

Dennis Davidson, popular Director of Romulus Parks and Recreation, is setting up a charity softball doubleheader benefit game June 20 for Muscular Dystrophy between Detroit Red Wing hockey players and members of the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Association. In

Soccer teams wind up in tie

It isn't always a coach can dispute a rule with a ref and win.
But that's what apparently happened in the Van Buren Soccer League as a coach successfully pointed out that the "official time" was five minutes off.
The official a la USA vs. Russia in one of the Olympic basketball games set back the clock, five minutes and the teams played to a 1-1 extended deadlock.

The Leeds sponsored by The Gold Market, tied the Livonia Shamrocks in an exciting and grueling game, leaving a score of 1:1.

Prior to that key match, no other team in the spring soccer season had been able to defeat or tie the Livonia Shamrocks.
Van Buren took the lead when Jay Fayler scored a goal in the first quarter. The Leeds continued to dominate the game until the third quarter when the Shamrocks scored.

Quick and decisive action by Van Buren goalie, Bo La Pointe, and strong defensive playing on the part of both teams provided a stalemate-type situation from that point on.

The Livonia Shamrock's coach disputed the referee's timing of the game and an additional five minutes were played. The score remained 1:1.

NEWS BULLETIN:

Higher pay for carpenters is on the horizon

For home buyers who think prices of new houses might be coming down soon, the new wage rates for carpenters may provide a sobering clue.

The present contract between the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and the Carpenters District Council of Detroit provides for increase on July 1 to a gross wage of $20.21 per hour for journeyman carpenters. Of that $15.54 goes into the base wage and the rest is in fringe benefits.

SELLING A HOME TODAY IS NO JOB FOR THE NOVICE.

A few simple questions would demonstrate our point. Try to answer them: a) What is the best method to price a home? By income, cost, or competitive market analysis? b) Is the buyer to furnish a credit report? c) Is the appraisal of a home's value based on assessed valuation? d) Is it a mistake when showing a home to ask the buyers to imagine their furniture in the rooms? If you've found even one of these problems difficult to answer, perhaps the knowledge and experience of a Neighborhood Professional™ would be helpful. To us, because of our training, they're just a few simple questions. Call your Neighborhood Professional today for the answers.
